Roosevelt Creates Defense Priority Board; France Will Not War On Britain, Vichy Says

President Acts To Avert Delay On U. S. Orders

Prompt Deliveries Vital to Nation's Interests, Statement Explains.

By The United Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—

President Roosevelt tonight established by executive order a new board, with sweeping powers to require production and delivery of all defense materials ahead of goods previously ordered by private industry.

Only explanation was a paragraph of Mr. Roosevelt's executive order which said that "the public interest requires that provision be made to insure the prompt delivery of materials, articles, equipment and supplies essential to the national defense."

The order said the National Defense Council had established the priorities board consisting of Production Coordinator William S. Knudsen, Materials Coordinator Edward R. Stettinius Jr. and Price Stabilization Coordinator Leon Henderson.

Nelson Administrator.
The board designated Donald M. Nelson, Sears-Roebuck executive who is coordinating all defense procurement, to act as priorities administrator.

Powers delegated to Nelson and the board were believed to be unprecedented in the nation's peacetime history. They may be applied to orders already placed and those to come.

The board was authorized to "require . . . persons with whom naval and army contracts and orders have been or are placed, to grant priority for deliveries pursuant thereto over all deliveries for private account or for export."

Policy Explained.
Nelson later issued a formal statement emphasizing that establishment of the new priorities administration does not mean that a system of mandatory priorities on all national defense contracts will be instituted immediately.

He said it was his intention to continue the "system of voluntary preference ratings now applied to certain defense contracts."

The chief executive issued the order under an act approved June 28, which gave him discretion to compel establishment of priority of government defense orders.

Authoritative observers predicted that the newly-established board would invoke its powers in few, if any, cases. Defense chiefs have praised private industry's co-operation in the $15,000,000,000 preparedness program repeatedly. It was believed in many quarters that tonight's order was a precautionary move which could be brought into play without delay in event of trouble.

Willkie Suffers Bruise When Hit by Apple

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(UP)—G. O. P. Presidential Nominee Wendell L. Willkie suffered a slight bruise on the temple tonight when he was struck by an apple thrown from a crowd gathered around his special train at the LaSalle street railroad station.

Mrs. Willkie, standing at her husband's side, was struck in the back by an egg.

Draft Boards Ready To Assign Numbers

Last minute activity yesterday virtually completed the organization of Georgia's draft machinery and local selective service officials made ready to assign serial numbers to the cards of last Wednesday's registrants.

The steps taken yesterday are:
1. Registration cards were distributed during the morning to six Fulton county draft boards located outside the city limits of Atlanta.

2. The cards of more than 60,000 Atlanta registrants were turned over to local post office officials, who spent all last night sorting the cards and assigning them to proper wards. Atlanta draft boards had been unable to do the task in the allotted time. Fulton boards 1-11 will receive these cards at 4 o'clock today in the senate chamber of the capitol.

3. Selective service officials ordered all draft boards in the state to assign and post the list of serial numbers by noon Saturday, in order that totals can be sent to Washington in time for the national lottery Tuesday.

4. Governor Rivers announced the selection of the long-awaited Fulton Board No. 3 which has the downtown area of Atlanta in its jurisdiction. Members are Fred Collier, Leo

Ireland Offers LeCraw Plans Britain Homes To Keep City's For Children 25-Mile Law

President De Valera Takes Initiative in Evacuation Plan.

LONDON (Wednesday), Oct. 23.—(UP)—Britain is negotiating with the De Valera government in Dublin for a large-scale exodus of women and children from London and other bomb-torn areas to Irish soil after suspension of evacuations to the United States and Canada, it was revealed last night.

Prime Minister Eamon de Valera, of neutral Eire, was said to have taken the initiative in the plan immediately after the U-boat torpedoing a month ago of the British refugee liner City of Benares, while it was en route to Canada, with the loss of more than 250 lives.

Homes for 25,000
Dublin authorities were said to have estimated that homes can be found in the 26 counties of Eire for 25,000 British women and children before Christmas.

De Valera, summoning his ministers into conference after the City of Benares disaster in the Atlantic, was quoted as asking:

"Can't Eire do something to help the mothers and children of bombed Britain?"

It was shortly after the sinking of the City of Benares, second refugee ship to be torpedoed in the Atlantic, that Minister of Health Malcolm MacDonald announced that further evacuations of children to Canada, the United States and other havens abroad was being abandoned, at least during the winter.

To Speed Evacuation.

At the same time, however, the government sought to speed up evacuations from the most heavily bombed areas of London including the east end tenement districts by paying the railroad fares and costs of boarding mothers and children in the country.

In order to spur evacuations from the poorer-class London districts, the government offered to pay five shillings a week ($1) for every mother and each child over 14 and three shillings (60 cents) a week for each child under 14.

Post-War Ties With Germans Seen by Official

Failure To Collaborate Would Be Insane, Min- ister Declares.

By The Associated Press.

VICHY, France, Oct. 22.—A foreign office spokesman said tonight there is "absolutely no question of France negotiating with a view to fighting England or any other country."

Foreign Minister Paul Baudouin earlier had expressed the hope that France would engage in "frank and total" post-war collaboration with Germany—because, he said, any other course would be "imbecile, insane and absurd."

Sees Peace in Months

Baudouin mentioned his hopes in connection with a peace to be signed in a matter of "months."

While important negotiations were being conducted somewhere in the German-occupied area of France, Vichy officials refused to discuss them except to say, "They still are not finished."

The Vichy cabinet met last night without Vice Premier Pierre Laval, but it permitted no hint that matters discussed were other than routine.

Co-operation "Necessary."

(Vichy correspondents, however, apparently were unable to send direct comment on today's conference between Hitler, Vice Premier Laval, of France, and German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop.)

France can also find the basis for an understanding with the United States, Baudouin told American correspondents, through the pursuit of her "old ideals of humanity, liberty, justice, order and truth."

Geographically and economically, French and German collaboration will be a European necessity once a "just" peace is signed, he asserted.

In reply to questions concerning Nazi press indications that Germany will annex Alsace and Lorraine, Baudouin commented: "I can't judge Germany by its intentions."

Churchill Plea Muffled.

Other French official quarters meanwhile said the government is not particularly concerned with Prime Minister Churchill's appeal yesterday for Britons to refrain from hindering Frenchmen's war effort, because he made no direct reference to the Vichy regime. The Churchill speech was not released for publication in France.

Discussing France's colonies, Baudouin said the status quo would be maintained in French mandated Syria, "where there are troops to preserve it" and that in French Indo-China efforts would be made toward an economic accord with Japan, which has won military concessions in that Asiatic outpost.

New 1941 Cars Being Displayed

The new 1941 autos—featuring beauty and mechanical excellence—are now being displayed in dealers' showrooms throughout the city under the joint sponsorship of the dealers and The Atlanta Constitution.

The new cars will be on display throughout the week and Atlantans are urged to visit the various showrooms for a look at the new models.

The 1941 cars—for the most part—are roomier, longer and wider than in previous years. In addition, practically every manufacturer has gone the limit in making the cars beautiful and mechanically perfect.

"THUNDERER" STRUCK—This is the office of the London Times, called the "Thunderer" because of its editorial assaults, after a German bomb struck the building and caused serious damage. Although its editorial management department was destroyed, the Times thundered on, did not miss one edition. The Times, in an editorial yesterday, advocated "bold, positive action" by Britain in the Aegean Sea "if Greece should ever cease to remain a free agent." (Stories on Page 5.)

Japan's Press Farley Urges F. D. R. Election, Calls for War Against Dutch

Failure of Oil Deal With Netherlands East In- dies Hinted.

TOKYO, Oct. 23.—(Wednesday) (P)—The Japanese newspaper Asahi indicated today that negotiations to obtain oil from the Netherlands East Indies had failed and suggested, "we must resort to armed force."

Although details of an oil agreement which the Japanese said was concluded with The Netherlands East Indies Saturday (and which officials at Batavia denied only yesterday) were not disclosed, the Japanese press seemed to believe the matter was still unsatisfactory. Failure, as usual, was attributed to British and American machinations, and London's reiteration that Britain has contracted for the Indies' high-grade gasoline heightened this sentiment.

Burma Road Trucks Reach Kunming Safely

HONGKONG, Oct. 23.—(Wednesday)—(P)—The first fleet of trucks to reach Kunming from Burma since the reopening of famous "Road to Mandalay" by British order on October 18 in the face of Japanese bomb threats, streamed into the Yunnan province capital yesterday, the Central Chinese news agency announced today.

The crews said there had been several air raid alarms en route, but that natural shelters gave adequate protection and that air defenses of towns and bridges along the route had been strengthened. Repair gangs are being augmented.

Governor-Elect Not Expected To Back Appeal

Financial Hope for Teachers During Rest of Year Fades.

By LUKE GREENE.

Financial hope for Georgia school teachers during the rest of this year began to fade yesterday as Ryburn G. Clay, fiscal agent for the state, expressed doubt Governor Rivers would be able to borrow $3,500,000 with which to pay the teachers unless Governor-elect Talmadge promised the banks he would pay off the obligation when it came due.

Sources close to the Governor-elect, who left early yesterday morning to spend several days at his farm, expressed the opinion he would not accede to the request that he stand back of Governor Rivers' obligations.

Banks Approached.

Clay said four Atlanta banks had been approached on the question of dividing the loan between them. Three of them, Clay said, had agreed to furnish their part of the loan provided Governor Talmadge wrote them a statement saying the money would be paid back. The fourth, he explained, had not given the terms of its acceptance.

Several New York investment houses have turned down the Georgia proposition, Clay said, and he added he frankly did not know where Governor Rivers would borrow the necessary funds in the event the Atlanta banks remained firm in their demands and the Governor-elect refused to give his approval.

State officials assigned considerable significance to Talmadge's statement that he was still a private citizen and not yet Governor.

Seen as Answer.

They interpreted this as being Talmadge's answer to the question of whether he would sign on the dotted line and agree to pay the debts of the Rivers administration.

Dr. M. D. Collins, state school superintendent, had no solution for paying the school teachers. He pointed out that their code of ethics gave them the privilege of quitting when they saw no funds in sight, but he said they had never before done this.

Dr. Collins expressed hope that Governor Rivers might be able to borrow as much as $1,800,000, since that amount of revenue would be forthcoming before the inauguration of Talmadge, but officials of the state auditor's office pointed out that this revenue was needed to pay the teachers in addition to the $3,500,000.

The auditor explained that about $6,000,000 would be needed to pay the teachers for the fall months. The salaries run about $1,500,000 per month.

It was pointed out that in the past the state had acted directly in borrowing from the Atlanta banks.

Violent Quake Rocks Balkans; Many Killed

Panic Sweeps Bucharest; Rumanian Oil Field Re- gion Damaged.

BUCHAREST, Oct. 22.—(UP)—One of the most violent earthquakes in years today rocked the Balkans, creating panic and heavy damage in Rumania and killing and injuring many children in the Busau district 100 miles north of Bucharest.

Tremors also were felt in northeastern Bulgaria, but in far less intensity. There were three sharp tremors in the Bessarabian city of Kishinev (Chisinau) according to reports from the territory recently ceded to Russia by Rumania.

So great was the panic in Bucharest, where terrified residents ran screaming into the streets, that scientists were summoned to make radio broadcasts assuring the population that no further quakes were expected.

Incomplete reports from the Ploesti oil field region said that smokestacks of refineries were damaged, and destruction in the field might prove great.

Owensby Tells Psychiatrists Of 'Shock' Cure

Declares Society Errs in Penalizing Maladjusted Persons.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22. (AP)—Southern psychiatrists heard and discussed half a dozen reports of progress in various aspects of their profession before adjourning their two-day convention tonight.

The association learned from its founder, Dr. N. M. Owensby, of Atlanta, that cases of sexual maladjustment often can be cured by administration of a drug to induce a certain type of shock.

"This approach, which we term the pharmacologic shock method, has proved successful in 13 out of 15 cases within the past three years," Owensby related.

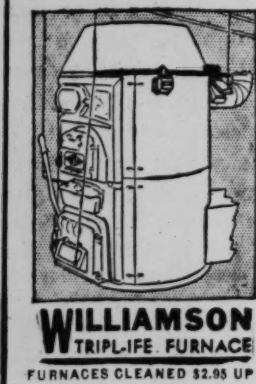

Society errs in imposing penalties on those afflicted with such maladjustments, Dr. Owensby declared.

"These penalties, often severe, cause abnormal persons to hide their afflictions, thus making it virtually impossible to study or cure them," he said.

The psychology of Adolf Hitler and of the German people was termed "very vulnerable" by another speaker, Dr. C. Charles Burlingame, of Hartford, Conn.

Willkie Gains On Roosevelt; Close Race Indicated—Gallup

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

(Copyright, 1940.)
PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 22.—If the present trend toward Wendell Willkie continues unaltered, there is a chance that the 1940 election will duplicate the Harrison-Cleveland race of 1888, when the candidate with the greatest number of popular votes actually lost the election in the electoral college.

In politics the trend is all important. If Wendell Willkie had not stopped the Roosevelt trend which Institute polls reported during September and early October, Roosevelt would obviously be winning by a landslide of electoral votes. But today the trend is moving the other way—toward Willkie—and unless the Roosevelt forces stop the Willkie trend, the campaign may end in the closest race since 1916.

The halting and reversal of Roosevelt's trend took place, Institute polls show, in early October.

Roosevelt Willkie
Aug. 4 Survey 51% 49%
Aug. 25 51 49
Sept. 20 55 45
Oct. 6 56 44
Oct. 18 55 45

The speeches which the President is making this week and next, may, of course, stop and even reverse the Willkie trend.

The present race illustrates again the fact that the popular vote is a far better index of the basic political strength of a candidate than the electoral vote.

In the course of gaining five points in popular vote between August 25 and October 6, Roosevelt virtually doubled his electoral vote score, rising from 247 to 499. By the same token, the slightest shift the other way has added a substantial bloc of electoral votes to Willkie's side. His gain of one per cent in popular vote added no fewer than 85 electoral votes to the Republican score.

While the popular vote of 55 per cent for Roosevelt will sound to the average layman like a comfortable margin, political experts will recognize that it actually leaves no great leeway for the Democrats.

The odd but highly important political fact is that, in view of the political composition for certain states, Roosevelt cannot win the election without carrying about 52 per cent of the popular vote. The national vote must be at or near that figure before the key states would normally show a margin over 50 per cent for Roosevelt.

The reason is, of course, that the Democrats pile up a greater popular vote in the south than they need to carry the electoral votes of that section. With the surplus majority in the south figured in, a vote of 52 per cent for Roosevelt in the entire nation is normally the equivalent of only about 50 per cent in the key states.

Roosevelt's present strength of 55 per cent is thus only three points above the 52 per cent which he needs to win. Can Willkie close the gap?

Another oddity of the campaign is that at any time between August and the past week—a period when Roosevelt's electoral votes nearly doubled—a shift of less than 1,000,000 votes would have changed enough electoral votes to put Willkie ahead.

$362,045 Granted For Water Works

WPA officials yesterday approved a grant of $362,045 for the construction of modern waterworks system to serve East Point and an urban reservoir which will provide a safety-gap for communities in south Fulton county.

Announcement of the approval was made here by East Point's Mayor James R. Parham, who said he was notified of the action by Senator George and Congressman Ranspach.

The project provides that WPA will furnish 58 per cent of the total cost and East Point will carry the remainder. Most of East Point's share will be covered by a $250,000 bond issue passed almost unanimously June 5.

The water system includes a 12-mile pipe line from Sweetwater creek, a filter system with a two-million-gallon daily capacity and a 10-million-gallon urban reservoir. Location of the filter plant and the reservoir has not been set.

Work on the project, it was said, will begin as soon as complete financial arrangements are made. East Point first must settle its bond issue. The community expects to add about $35,000 to the bond issue to complete its share.

College Votes Courtted Also By Democrats

Big Rally Tomorrow Night at University of Georgia.

By LUKE GREENE.

Neither the Democrats nor Republicans are overlooking the opportunity to glean a few votes from Georgia's college students in this year's general election.

While pretty Miss Eleanor A. Rhodes is trying to stimulate the political pulse on the campuses for Wendell Willkie, the Democrats are busily engaged in telling the youngsters a thing or two about Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Atlanta Democrat headquarters announced yesterday that a big rally will be staged on the University of Georgia campus tomorrow night by the Young Democratic Club.

To Whom It Up.

Among those who will whip it up for the Democratic ticket will be Senator Russell, Governor-elect Talmadge, Herman Talmadge and Ivan Allen Sr., chairman of the Democratic campaign committee.

Leaders of the club say that nearly 50 per cent of the members of the club are of voting age and 90 per cent will be of voting age in the next election.

The party leaders are encouraging debates on the subject of who should be the next President of the United States, and the forensic artists on many campuses are entering into them with enthusiasm.

While the two parties angled for collegiate votes, Harry Sommers, strong Atlanta supporter of Willkie, claimed the Republicans were not as financially independent as the Democrats charged.

He demanded to know "where the Democrats got the idea we have lots of money to spend on the campaign?"

"As a matter of fact, we haven't the money to buy radio time for the hour of the day, and about the national committee sent us," he said.

New York Charges.

From New York come charges that Georgia and 22 other states had illegally interfered with the election rights of "certain minority parties."

The charges were made by 278 clergymen of 21 denominations throughout the country who protested interference of the "Democrats-for-Willkie movement and Socialist-Labor, Prohibition, Socialist and Communist parties."

Both Governor Rivers and Attorney General Ellis Arnall were not informed as to whether the communications had been received.

Georgia Prohibitionists also pressed their campaign, with L. P. Glass, of Lavonia, calling for dry rallies in "every Georgia courthouse" for November 2. He urged the dries to campaign for the return of prohibition to the state.

Pardon Petition Asks Clemency For Flog Chief

East Point Officials Reported To Have Signed for Cauton.

A petition asking a pardon for Henry Cauton, convicted leader of the East Point Ku Klux Klan flogging band, is being circulated in East Point and has been signed by persons holding political office there, it was learned yesterday.

Cauton, who was sentenced to 12 months on the public works, six months in jail and to $1,000 fine, is at liberty on bail. A new trial was denied him last week by Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, who presided at his sensational hearing early last summer, and a new plea to the Court of Appeals is being prepared by his attorney, Reuben A. Garland.

An employee of a shirt factory near College Park named Bob Garrison refused yesterday either to deny or confirm that he was circulating the pardon petition. He said he favored clemency for Cauton on the ground "no man sentenced on a misdemeanor in Georgia has ever served time for his first offense."

Efforts to confirm rumors citing specific names of East Point officials as having signed the petition were unsuccessful. No one was willing to discuss the development for publication.

It was said at Solicitor General John Boykin's office that, if the petition were presented to the Governor, it would be resisted. No further flogging trials have been scheduled. Under conviction, besides Cauton, are Walter Forster and Dan Eidson, who received the same sentence as Cauton; W. T. Walton, sentenced to three years, 18 months and $3,000 fine, and Raymond Bryan, who was given two years, 12 months and $2,000 fine.

Among those awaiting trial are three former deputy sheriffs, Herb Eidson, uncle of Dan Eidson and brother of Councilman Paul Eidson, of East Point; Ed Burdette and W. W. Scarborough, who admitted being exalted cyclops of the Ku Klux Klan while the floggers were creating a reign of terror in south Fulton county.

40-Hour Week Affects Status Of Two Million

Interstate Industry Employees To Get Shorter Week or Overtime.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The beginning of the 40-hour standard work week under the wage-hour law Thursday will mean a shorter work week or overtime pay for some 2,000,000 workers in interstate industry, wage-hour officials estimated today.

They said this was the number of workers who could be found in any week of average industrial activity working more than 40 hours without getting overtime wages at the rate of time and a half.

Approximately 700,000 more, they said, work more than 40 hours also, but are paid time and a half as a matter of practice or contract.

In Georgia, wage-hour authorities said, 215,000 workers were covered by the law and about 62,380 would be affected by the new hour schedule.

The 40-hour week is the final step in the evolution of a fixed standard work week under the wage-hour act.

When the law went into operation in 1938, it called for a 44-hour week and time and a half pay for overtime. In October, 1939, the week became 42 hours. The act is applicable only to persons engaged in interstate commerce or the production of goods for interstate commerce.

Veterans Here Protest Draft Clerk Choices

'Some Are Not Voters, on State Pay Rolls,' Dykstra Told.

Charges that "in many instances" clerks of Fulton county draft boards are "not voters of Fulton county" and that "some are now on state pay roll" were made last night by Greater Atlanta Post No. 390, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Members of the post wired Clarence A. Dykstra, director of national selective service, requesting him to investigate membership of the Fulton draft boards before appointing them.

The telegram was signed by Charles L. Pearson, post commander, and James K. Finch, post adjutant.

Governor Rivers and Major Cliff Hatcher, assistant state director of selective service, were out of town and unavailable for comment last night. Adjutant General Marion Williams, state director of selective service, was in Washington.

Each board appoints its clerk, it was pointed out, although in some instances follows the recommendation of the governor.

Edward Montag Dies; Business Leader Here

Migrated From Germany to Atlanta More Than 60 Years Ago.

Edward Montag, 72, one of the founders of Montag Brothers, nationally known stationery manufacturers, died last night at his residence, 1195 Boulevard, N. E.

With his parents, Mr. Montag migrated from Germany to Atlanta more than 60 years ago, and as a young man, he and his two brothers organized the Montag Brothers firm. The business grew rapidly, and they became known throughout the country as one of the leading establishments in their field.

About five years ago Mr. Montag withdrew from the firm and became president of the Perfect Belt Manufacturing Company, a position he held at the time of his death.

He is survived by his two brothers, Sigmund and Will Montag; four nephews, Sol and Leopold Hein, and Lewis and Harold Montag, and two nieces, Mrs. M. A. First and Mrs. Frank First.

Funeral plans will be announced by Sam R. Greenberg.

Plans were outlined last night by Atlanta Lodge of Elks, No. 78, at a dinner given to a large membership group at the Elks' home on Peachtree street for an extensive membership campaign.

The campaign, according to Charles M. Brown, Wellborn Ellis and Judge John S. McClelland, the active leaders, is expected to bring in the largest class known to the lodge for many years. It is to be known as the "General John J. Pershing Class."

George B. Yancey, exalted ruler, states that the class will be initiated on December 5.

Tomorrow evening a special "Preparedness Night" program will be presented by a committee composed of Frank R. Fling, Tom Gilmore, I. S. Moss, Troy B. Stone and A. E. Cutler.

R. G. Banner, head of the FBI, Atlanta district, will be the guest speaker.

Atlanta Librarians Attending Meeting

Ten Atlanta librarians are to take part on the program when the Southeastern Library Association holds its 11th biennial session at Savannah from today through Friday of this week.

They are Misses Fanny Hinton, Eunice Coston, and Alma Hill Jamison, of Carnegie library; Misses Tommie Dora Barker, Marion V. Higgins and Evalene P. Jackson, of Emory University Library school; Misses Jamieson and Laura Colvin and Giles Robinson of the Emory University library, and Miss Virginia McJenkin, supervisor of Fulton county school libraries.

Sixteen other Atlanta librarians will also attend the meeting.

WINTER RACING.

Roy Waldron, trainer for Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way Farm stable, visited the farm at Pultaski, Tenn., recently. On his return to Laurel, he reported he had shipped 17 yearlings and five other horses to California for the winter racing.

Streamlined Circus Plays in All-Blue Tent

Advance Man Wastes No Superlatives on 1940 Edition.

That infallible harbinger of winter, the circus press agent, arrived in Atlanta yesterday in the person of Allen J. Lester, for 21 years the advance man of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Lester, who wastes no superlatives, wasted none on this year's show, or his new boss, John Ringling North, a dynamic young man who has streamlined and apparently resuscitated the moribund circus business.

"People told us we were fools to go on the road this year; we'd lose our shirt," Lester exclaimed. "Election years and war years are supposed to be bad. Instead, we've done the biggest business in 15 years."

In addition to new acts, presented in a new way, North's strictly 1940 circus will be played under a solid blue tent instead of the familiar old brown top, and will offer its patrons deodorized, conditioned air.

"Not only cooled air, but warmed, if the climate demands it," Lester explained. Because of the air-conditioning, the circus has been able to lengthen its tour by some few weeks, and will not go into winter quarters until the middle of November.

The circus is traveling this year on four long trains. With it are 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals, including Gargantuan the Great in his air-conditioned cage.

The circus will play here on the Highland avenue grounds. Dates set are November 4 and 5. There will be both matinee and evening performances each day, the matinee at 2:15 o'clock and the evening show at 8:15.

W. D. Anderson Sr. Will Speak Here

W. D. Anderson Sr., chairman of the board of the Bibb Manufacturing Company, Macon, will be the principal speaker at a luncheon meeting of the Atlanta Textile Club at 12:30 o'clock Monday, November 4, at the Piedmont hotel.

Approximately 30 southern cotton mill officials have been invited to attend the meeting as special guests of the club. R. A. McKay, president, announced.

The club is composed of sales representatives of cotton textile mills, whose headquarters are in Atlanta.

Preparedness To Be Keynote Of Red Cross

North and Central Georgia Officials Will Meet Today.

Red Cross officials of north and central Georgia—approximately 175 of them—will meet at the Biltmore today for the annual regional conference, at which Red Cross preparedness for national defense will be the keynote.

Speakers will include the following national officials: Mrs. C. D. Wolfe, of Washington, D. C., assistant to the manager of the eastern area; Nat C. Wilson, Washington, D. C., assistant manager, eastern area, and Albert Evans, director, disaster relief, midwestern area.

Topics to be discussed will include plans for the annual roll call, production of relief garments for Great Britain, training of thousands of additional first aiders as part of manpower conservation because of an expanding industrial activity and the necessity for increasing enrollment of Red Cross nurses, both as a reserve for the army and navy and for home emergencies.

The meeting will open with registration at 9 o'clock and continue throughout the day. Dr. Frank K. Boland, chairman, Atlanta chapter, will make the address of welcome.

Red Cross officials have indicated that Georgia must increase its roll call allotment. While no definite goal has been decided upon, officials here are pointing toward a new high of 125,000 members for the state.

Civilians Pledge Support to City Traffic Laws

The Atlanta Civitan Club yesterday called upon its members to "voluntarily comply with the city's 25-mile-an-hour speed law and to cooperate with the traffic officers in an honest endeavor to reduce accidents, save human lives and make our streets safe for motorists and pedestrians alike."

In a resolution presented by Zach T. Layfield and unanimously approved by the public affairs committee, the members pledged their support to Chief Hornsby and the police department "in a sincere effort to enforce the traffic laws, without fear or favor, with fairness and justice, but with firmness."

Other civic clubs were invited to join in a new safety campaign. The resolution expressed alarm at the increase in traffic fatalities after a steady decrease for three years.

The city's 25-mile-an-hour limit was termed "fair, reasonable and workable."

Atlanta Pupils To Contribute To Fund Drive

School Children Expected To Surpass Last Year's Donation.

School children of Greater Atlanta, approximately 100,000 strong, will be given an opportunity today to share in the Community Fund appeal, school authorities of both public and private schools announced yesterday.

Participation in the appeal on the part of students has become an annual event with the boys and girls. In addition to making their own contributions, students also take part in dramatic plays and skits and essay contests with the Fund and its 34 participating agencies as the central theme.

Social science teachers in the advance grades have given special lessons dealing with the work and scope of participating Fund agencies during the past week or two using as a textbook a manual on the subject prepared by the group of teachers last year.

Hearty Indorsement. Hearty indorsement of the Fund appeal has been voiced by school officials. Teachers, while giving information to students, are making substantial donations on their own part.

Last year envelopes filled by students and dropped into special Community Fund boxes contained approximately $3,000 in coins and bills. With added information on functions and service of the sharing health and welfare agencies, an increased amount is expected from the youngsters this week.

In most instances envelopes will be passed out to students today with instructions to return them Thursday with personal gifts. All donations are kept strictly on a voluntary basis and no student knows whether other classmates are able to make a contribution or not.

Large Gifts Reported. Large gifts to the Fund appeal, many of which were generous increases over previous performances, were reported at headquarters yesterday as the campaign entered its second day of general solicitation.

Grouped at $1,200 were gifts from Mr. and Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright and Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Jones Jr. The Arkwright contribution was in addition to a $15,000 donation by the Georgia Power Company, announced by the Advance Gifts Division yesterday morning.

Other gifts reported yesterday were: Mr. and Mrs. DeSales Harrison, $720; Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Allen, $165; Charles H. Black, $100; Dr. F. Phinley Calhoun, $500; Charles H. Candler Jr., $200; Alvin B. Cates, $380; Harry I. Davis, $380; William J. Davis, $100; Hal S. Dumas, $225; John N. Goddard, $400; Frederick A. Hoyt, $300; Joseph B. Jacobs, $300; Charles H.

IMAGINE! A CRISP AND DELICIOUS BREAKFAST CEREAL INSTEAD OF "DOSES" TO COMBAT CONSTIPATION!

HAVE YOU TRIED ALL-BRAN'S "BETTER WAY"?

EASY TO TAKE! Just compare a breakfast bowl of crisp KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN plus sugar and cream, and maybe some fruit, with the usual remedies for constipation due to lack of "bulk." Is it any wonder that a million people every day choose ALL-BRAN'S "better way"?

IF YOU SUFFER from the common kind of constipation (due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet), here's a happy thought.

WHY DEPEND on remedies that may offer only temporary relief, when you can get at the cause of the trouble and correct it by regularly eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN for breakfast?

Have you tried ALL-BRAN'S "better way" to combat constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet? When you use this wholesome, delicious breakfast cereal regularly, you win on two counts. First, you both correct the trouble and prevent its recurrence—by getting at its cause. That's a whole lot better way than suffering first, and then seeking temporary relief through medicines. And, second, it is many times more pleasant to eat this genuine KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Accept no substitute. ALL-BRAN is backed by 20 years of experience and millions of satisfied users. It is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, sold by every grocer.

Hitler, Laval Meet Secretly For Conference

Pressure on France To Join War Against Britain Reported.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(P)—Adolf Hitler received Vice Premier Laval, of France, somewhere in French territory today, it was announced officially tonight, climaxing indications of a developing attempt to mass the surviving French warships with those of Germany and Italy for a showdown with the British fleet.

(The Vichy government denied any war plans against Britain.)

No details of the Hitler-Laval conference were disclosed, save that it was attended also by German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop, already reported assigned to the job of seeking to get France to enter the war against her old ally.

The meeting presumably was held in German-occupied France. Laval has made several trips to Paris as the emissary of the Vichy government to the German military authorities there.

Wireless Report.

The German wireless, in a report broadcast under date of Istanbul, also asserted that French authorities in Syria had declared the French army there to be "completely in a position to protect Syria," possible Axis-British battlefront in the Near East.

(Laval, the swarthy little advocate of appeasement, is likely to take over the French government powers in name as well as fact in arranging a final French-German war settlement, observers at Bern, Switzerland, believed.

(The Laval-Hitler conference was reported to have been accepted at Vichy as meaning that a final settlement between France and Germany is close, but not at the price of active French participation in the war against Britain.)

(Many French observers, however, believe that Laval and Admiral Jean Darlan, secretary of state for the French navy, advocate accepting the German terms and making war against Britain, erstwhile ally of France.)

Before the disclosure of Hitler's mysterious talk with Laval had been made officially, there had been rumors of negotiations with the French government of Marshal Pétain to bring France into the war on the side of the Axis.

Churchill Hit.

They had been supported by the absence from Berlin of Von Ribbentrop himself and by yesterday's radio appeal of British Prime Minister Churchill that the French people do nothing to hinder Britain's prosecution of the war even though they could do nothing to help.

(Churchill's speech was unsparingly denounced today by the German propagandist "Lord Haw Haw" in a broadcast picked up in the United States by CBS.)

(Haw Haw called it "a miserable little effort," said Churchill was "a mean little character," declared it was "fresh proof of object weakness on the part of Britain.")

Lupescu's Jeweler

To Leave Rumania

BUCHAREST, Oct. 22.—(P)—Heinrich Weiss, a jeweler who supplied Mme. Magda Lupescu, friend of former King Carol, with most of the gems admirers gave her, was reported by informed sources today to have agreed to turn over his shop, stock in trade and all other possessions to the Rumanian government in return for an exit permit.

Weiss owns the biggest stock of jewelry in southeastern Europe. Friends said he plans to go to the United States and already has the necessary visas.

U. S. Women, Children Arrive at Canadian Port

A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 22.—(P)—Twenty American women and children, vanguard of United States citizens leaving the Orient upon State Department advice, arrived here last night on their way home.

They refused to give interviews. The vessel which brought them also carried a number of Britons.

Ship Captain Tells Kiwanians Nazis Are 'Poor' Bombers.

Adolf Hitler's efforts to break the courage of the British people with bombs has only served to strengthen their morale, Captain Albert R. Francis, commander of a ship in the Royal Navy's Transport Service, told members of the Kiwanis club here yesterday.

Captain and Mrs. Francis are here on leave as guests of Mrs. H. M. Atkinson on Habersham way.

Captain Francis is commander of the "Monarch of Bermuda," a 24,000-ton vessel that was taken out of passenger service and made into an army transport.

He said German airmen are "poor marksmen" and related numerous instances to support his claim. On one occasion, he said, the Germans bombed his ship and five others for eight hours in Norwegian waters without scoring a single direct hit.

He takes no stock in the belief that the British navy will surrender and expressed the opinion that Russia will never let Germany go through the Balkans.

U. S. Takes Action Despite Stockholm Government's Protest.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(UP)—The United States has requisitioned 110 American-built warplanes over formal protests by the Swedish government, which had ordered the craft, it was disclosed tonight.

The requisitioning was announced by the War Department and confirmed by the State Department, which revealed that the Swedish government, through its legation here, had made representations against the proceedings.

Sweden's protests were answered by Secretary of State Cordell Hull in two notes, one of which said that "the interests of the national defense have made it necessary for this government to refuse . . . to issue licenses authorizing the exportation of war materials to Sweden."

Both the State and War Department announcements said requisitioning was decided upon after unsuccessful efforts to negotiate with the Swedish government for United States purchase of these craft—60 pursuit planes and 50 bombers, manufactured by the Republic Aviation Corporation, Farmingdale, N. Y.

The War Department said the 110 planes are "urgently needed" by the United States Army Air Corps for advanced training purposes.

Simultaneously, it was learned from other sources that arrangements have been made to sell to Canada approximately 150 other combat planes which the Swedish government had ordered from the Vultee Aircraft Corporation, of California.

Unofficial quarters speculated that the United States might have ordered requisitioning of the 110 Swedish planes for fear they might eventually fall into German hands.

London Times Suggests 'Bold' Aegean Action

Warns Italian Bases in Greek Islands Would Menace British.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The Times, of London, today advocated "bold, positive action" by Britain in the Aegean sea "if Greece should ever cease to be a free agent."

The Times often correctly fore-shadows government views.

In a 1,500-word editorial on Balkan strategy, the Times said any Italian possession of submarine and air bases in the Greek islands would menace the British Near Eastern position, but "were the Aegean islands to provide British instead of Italian or German bases, the Axis threat to Turkey would be largely nullified and our position in the eastern Mediterranean would be strengthened."

"Action to be taken should Greece demand military assistance or, alternatively, should it appear that she were about to be subjected to such duress as would deprive her of freedom of action, to such duress as Rumania is obviously experiencing, is therefore of the highest importance."

British Planes Rout Germans In Darkness By Nazi Bombs

London Is Saved From All But 'Flea-Bite' Attacks.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(Wednesday)—A dead gray haze and an alert fighter squadron which routed a big formation of German warplanes over the southeast coast combined last night to save London from all but mere "flea-bite attacks" and gave the city one of its lightest nights since the beginning of the long air siege.

The nightly alarm came just after dusk and by midnight the all-clear had sounded. It was but a brief period of quiet, however, for in the early morning the Nazis appeared yet again to renew the assault.

But this second raid lasted only a brief time, and no bombs were heard.

Four Nazi planes were unofficially reported to have been downed in the great night battle over the Kentish cliffs, but the night official communiqué mentioned only three destroyed against British losses of six.

The only detonations heard in the London area past midnight were those of the anti-aircraft guns and the occasional explosion of light bombs. No big bombs fell.

The southeast coast engagement involved more than 100 planes, according to the estimates of ground watchers.

The attacking force included a formation of German bombers escorted by numerous Messerschmitt fighter-bombers, and was split quickly into many small and struggling units which were decimated by anti-aircraft fire.

"I watched them streaking back to France," said a witness. "They weren't in formation any more—just going any way to get home."

Other Nazis were over the northwest coast. From one town in the southeast came reports that raiders had machine-gunned a bus.

The day brought a disclosure that one more ancient London structure, Middle Temple hall in the Temple Inns of Court, had been damaged by a bomb which struck through a wall and destroyed much of the interior wood carving. The hall is one of four such inns of court which are the seats of legal societies active since the 13th century.

Navy Dipping Deeply Into Its Reserve Units

Needs Help in Manning the Naval Establishment Ashore.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—The Navy is dipping with increasing frequency into its reservoir of reserves and retired officers to help man the naval establishment ashore and keep regular personnel free for duty with the expanding fleet.

Back of the 200,300 officers and men in the regular Navy and Marine Corps is a pool of 76,000 officers and men in various reserve groups and on the retired officers' list.

All of these, excepting 1,500 of the 3,500 retired officers, who are disqualified by extreme age or physical disabilities, are subject to call for active duty in an emergency.

Already, some 2,250 officers of the Naval Reserve, 450 of the Marine Corps Reserve and 900 retired officers have been placed on active duty on a voluntary basis.

Furthermore, the Navy has called up most of the 14,000 men of its fleet reserve, an organization of former enlisted men.

And now the organized reserves, comprising officers and men who have received a retainer in peacetime for drilling regularly together, are being ordered to duty gradually on a compulsory basis.

On October 6 Secretary Knox gave notice to the 1,200 officers and 11,000 enlisted men in the organized Naval Reserve, and to the 400 officers and 6,500 men in the organized Marine Corps Reserve, that orders to active duty would be forthcoming for them shortly.

Film Notables Arrive Today For Premiere

Stars of 'Aunt Maggie' Coming by Plane for First Showing.

Hollywood moves in on Atlanta today to join in the parties and festivities which will christen the movie version of Medora Field Perkinson's "Who Killed Aunt Maggie?"

The world premiere will be held at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Rialto theater.

The stars of the film arrive today. With them will be curvaceous 19-year-old Lois Ransom, newest of Republic stars, who only last Friday was named as one of the 13 "baby stars" of 1940—that means the Hollywood big shots think she is one of the new crop of actresses who will succeed in the movies.

With her, arriving on the 3:20 o'clock plane from the coast this afternoon, will be John Hubbard, male romantic lead in the film; Walter Abel, who plays the doctor; and Mona Barrie, who plays the doctor's wife.

Judy Canova Here.

Judy Canova, the girl who put Unadilla, Ga., on the world map, will arrive by train from New York at 8:30 o'clock this morning. It will be her first visit to Atlanta since she became a movie star. She's just coming along to be present for the festivities and to see her old friends here.

Herbert Yates, chairman of the board of Republic Pictures, arrived by plane last night, and William Saal, Republic's chief of exploitation, has been here since Monday.

Judy, arriving ahead of the stars from the coast and being a Georgian by adoption, will join with Mayor Hartsfield and Governor Rivers in welcoming the actors and actresses at the airport this afternoon.

Motorcade of Stars.

Immediately after there will be a motorcade from the airport to the Georgian Terrace hotel, which will pass down Whitehall and Peachtree streets. The motorcade should reach Five Points about 4:30 o'clock.

This trip to Atlanta is Miss Ransom's prize from Republic for winning the "baby star" crown. She has never before been out of the state of California. The 19-year-old baby star missed going to college and the surrounding sorority and fraternity life.

The boys at Georgia Tech have been asked to show her something of what college life is like while here. Frank Allcorn, outstanding Georgia Tech student, will be her official escort during her stay here.

Tonight there will be a reception for Mrs. Perkinson, Atlanta author of the story, and the stars at the Athletic Club given by McMillan Company, publishers of the book.

LEAVE FOR SESSION.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Oct. 22.—A committee representing the student council of Glynn Academy left last night for Tulsa, Okla., to attend the ninth annual convention of the Southern Association of Student Government. Those attending from Brunswick are Miss Beulah Lott, faculty advisor of the council; George W. Nannemaker III, president; Miss Carolyn Wolfe, treasurer; Miss Agnes Champion and Middleton Harris Junior.

The Georgia Conservatory and Music Center is glad to announce that Darden Rumble has been added to the faculty as teacher of trumpet and cornet. Mr. Rumble has had much experience, both in orchestras and military and concert bands as a performer on his instrument. He studied with John Scharf, former member of Sousa's Band, and with other teachers both in Atlanta and New York. In addition to his study of the trumpet, Mr. Rumble has enlarged his musical background with a knowledge of other instruments as well as voice. These studies have added greatly to his knowledge of breath control, phrasing, and style of playing. Registrations are now being received for Mr. Rumble's classes at the Georgia Conservatory and Music Center, 160 Peachtree St. N. W. Phone MA. 8322—(adv.).

STARS IN ATLANTA TODAY—Arriving today from Hollywood for the world premiere of "Who Killed Aunt Maggie," tomorrow night, will be the stars of the film and other Hollywood dignitaries. Above, shown watering the flowers in her Hollywood garden is Lois Ransom, chosen last Friday as one of the 13 "baby stars" of 1940. She will be escorted during her stay here by Frank Allcorn, Georgia Tech student. At the right, from top to bottom, are John Hubbard, Judy Canova, Walter Abel and Mona Barrie. The star-laden plane arrives at Candler field at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon.

Cab Callaway Plays In Auditorium Tonight

Cab Callaway, "scat-singing" handleader, is bringing his entertainers and musicians to Atlanta's city auditorium tonight.

Cab's peculiar style of singing, his cavorting and eccentric style of baton-wielding have won him the title of America's most entertaining handleader. Featured will be the drumming of Cozy Cole and the tenor saxophone work of Chu Berry. A special reserved section has been provided for white patrons.

Chaplin's Dictator Here October 31

Charlie Chaplin's "The Dictator" will open an engagement at Loew's Grand theater here Thursday, October 31, Eddie Pentecost, manager, announced yesterday.

The show, which opened in New York October 15 with a gala premiere, has been attracting capacity houses wherever shown, Pentecost said.

The picture—satire on dictatorship—has been in production for several years and cast Chaplin in the lead. Other prominent parts in the picture are portrayed by Jack Oakie, who is "Mussolini" and Billy Gilbert, who is "Geor-

Rooms and Apartments are always wanted. Those "seeking" are "peeking" into the rent ads of "The Constitution."

City Employee Hit for Going To Convention

Violated Atlanta's Hatch Law, Lowry Sims Is Told.

Atlanta's own little Hatch law, the civil service rules against municipal employees participating in politics, was invoked for the first time yesterday by the city personnel board and Lowry Sims, deputy city clerk and son of former Mayor Walter A. Sims, was reprimanded publicly for attending as a delegate the state Democratic convention October 3 at Macon.

The board held in effect that when Sims accompanied the DeKalb county delegates to the convention to participate in the official nomination of Governor-elect Talmadge and other state house officials, he was engaging in politics and violating the civil service rules.

Board members, however, said they were impelled to be lenient because it "appeared that Sims did not deliberately break the rule" and they sent a letter on the board's action in reprimanding him to all city departments "for their future information," and asked all department heads to post the letter on bulletin boards.

When Sims appeared voluntarily before the board, presided over by Gus Harper, chairman, he was backed by City Clerk Joe Richardson, who said when the campaigns for office first opened he "called all members of my department together and told them about the restrictions of the civil service law and so far as I know no one engaged in politics."

Sims said he did not regard his attendance as a delegate to the convention as "participating in politics since the primary was already over and Governor Talmadge already was nominated."

Petition of F. A. Smith, clerk in the water department, to be allowed to live outside the city limits, was refused by the board.

State Supreme Court Decides Against Burns

Four-to-Six Sentence for Macon Robbery Is Upheld.

The Georgia supreme court yesterday, upheld the conviction and a four-to-six-year sentence of A. T. Jean, alias "Pee Wee" Burns, former Atlanta bootlegger, for a Macon diamond and liquor robbery.

An appeal for a full pardon for Burns is pending before Governor Rivers. Marvin Griffin, executive secretary to the governor, said he was not ready to pass on the plea since he had not conferred with the chief executive.

Burns' conviction was affirmed last July by the Georgia court of appeals. He was brought to trial three times for the robbery of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Modena at Macon in 1936.

The supreme court overruled several technical grounds on which Burns sought a new trial and then asserted that the evidence authorized conviction.

Valuable Books On Genealogy Given Library

Many valuable books on genealogy have recently been given to Carnegie library's Hattie Wilson High Memorial Genealogical collection, Miss Alma Jamieson, head of the reference department, announced yesterday.

The newest volumes are 34 books of New Jersey Archives, the gift of Mrs. Frank Tucker Mason, and seven volumes of Maryland wills, the gift of Mrs. Elijah Brown.

The High Memorial collection is now the best source of genealogical reference material in the south with the exception of the library of the Richmond Historical Society. It was presented to the library several years ago by the Georgia chapter of the National Society of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America.

It is a memorial to Mrs. J. M. High, first president of the Georgia chapter of the organization and its nucleus is 603 volumes of genealogy collected by the late Colonel R. H. Peck.

Mrs. Mason is present president of the Georgia chapter of the Daughters of Founders and Patriots.

Carolina Youth Bound Over in Elder Slaying

August 10 in a woodland near Decatur, five weeks after he disappeared.

The suspect is Frank DuPree, of Monks Corner, who, according to DeKalb County Plainclothesmen John W. Jones and W. B. Griffin, has changed his testimony "seven or eight times" and has tried unsuccessfully to involve persons who gave alibis.

The two detectives arrested DuPree September 3 in South Carolina when he allegedly admitted being a passenger in an automobile stolen from Elder. The car was wrecked in Harleyville, S. C., two days after Elder's disappearance.

Solicitor Roy Leather appeared on behalf of the state in the hearing held before Justice of the Peace W. J. Langley.

FAD REVERSED.

Colusa, Cal., High school has had enough of this drum major's fad—it's going to turn the tables. The school is forming an all-female drum corps of 11 girls. The drum major will be a boy.

Considine To Act As Representative

FORT OGLETHORPE, Ga., Oct. 22. — Lieutenant Colonel John Considine, new commanding officer of the Sixth Cavalry, has been appointed Fourth Corps Area representative for Camp Peary, National Guard training camp now being constructed at Tullahoma, Tenn., it was announced here today.

General Millikin will leave here Wednesday morning for his first inspection trip to the new camp, and will remain at Camp Peary for the remainder of the day. He is expected to return here Thursday afternoon. Approximately 25,000 National Guard troops will soon be training at this new camp.

ATLANTA, GA., OCTOBER 23, 1940.

Confident Churchill

Winston Churchill, in his speech broadcast to the French people, said several things which revealed, perhaps more emphatically than ever before, the confidence he, and all Britain, feels in the ultimate smashing of the Nazi machine and the Nazi idea.

He told the world that, by 1941, Britain would be master of the skies. This can mean only that the production of new British planes, combined with the American planes now crossing the Atlantic in steady flow, is greater than has hitherto been believed.

Already it is becoming known that the punishment the RAF has inflicted upon Germany and the Nazi-occupied countries is greater and far more effective in a military sense than all the Luftwaffe has been able to do to Britain.

Accelerating effectiveness of the RAF attack may be expected and, if Churchill's prediction of "mastery" by 1941 comes true, that means the early doom of Nazi Germany.

Such mastery of the skies would, naturally, be followed by a land invasion, with the British navy clearing the way and the RAF smashing German defenses in advance. Such a development would bring results so evident as to need no recapitulation.

It is significant, too, that Churchill referred, in his speech, to the Germans as the Boches, a term of sneering scorn which is the most hated epithet in all Germany. Unless he knew he was speaking as the certain victor in the struggle, it is hardly likely he would thus have insulted the enemy.

Meanwhile, reports under a Berlin dateline intimate the Nazis have hopes that France will re-enter the war, but this time on the Nazi side. Such a development is inconceivable. It smacks too much of Nazi propaganda, perhaps primarily intended to bolster the fast-slipping morale of the German people, to be seriously considered.

If France made such a tragic mistake, it would leave her in worse position, for the world of the future, than all the horrors the Nazis can wreak upon her.

The Dare Stones

A story fascinating as any movie thriller is that of the Dare stones, now accepted by scientists as probably authentic and thought to write the blank pages of the Lost Colony's history.

The wilderness wanderings of the little band into the heart of Georgia's ancient lands can now be reconstructed from the trail of the 46 stones, written for the ages on a letterhead old as time itself. It is not impossible that the last remnants of this little band, or their half-breed children, were those rumored Englishmen sought a few years later by a Spanish expedition into the Creek territory (which ran generally south and west from the southernmost Cherokee influence). The Chattahoochee area north of Coweta generally was outside the section penetrated in those early years by the Spanish, chiefly Franciscans. The searching parties sent by Governor Salinas from St. Augustine were, if they indeed had heard of the remnants of the Dare party, just 25 years too late. Taking into consideration conditions and communications at that time, it is not impossible that this was the case. At any rate, no trace ever was found of the Englishmen rumored living in the territory jealously preempted by the Spanish.

The fate of the Lost Colony has intrigued historians for centuries and has remained as one of the great mysteries of the English world. It is striking that the apparent solution is as fascinating as the mystery itself.

Later in Georgia's history, traders found the Creeks and the Cherokees friendly peoples and some of the greatest Americans of these early years were the offspring of mixed marriages of Englishmen and Indian maidens. So it is not surprising that the Dare party found a haven with the Indians of the interior. Neither is it surprising that they found hostility and death in Carolina, for Spanish and French and English raiders had been off these coasts before them, seeking slaves and sassafras for their lands in the West Indies.

It is not unlikely that the study of the stones will lead to a further development of the history of the party and the people among whom they found succor.

An Answer To Hitler

British shells and British guns are writing a footnote to Hitler's claim of mastery of the English channel. It is simple: Britannia rules the waves.

A great gray wraith slips into the darkening night and in the dim dawn looms roars into Dunkerque on the nose of the British navy's authority. There is punctuation to Hitler's boast. There where the wry taste of retreat was chased by the glory of the men who go down to the sea in ships, there where there is so much that is forever England, there where the terror tide rolled high; there the navy speaks.

It does not speak as imperatively, perhaps, as the dark shadows across the London skies fashioning a hymn of hate in British hearts that will forever curse its composers. But it signs the compact the British have with Hitler: it says, we will be back. And Hitler in his dark hours can read the message. The channel is still English, and so long as the great fleet guards it, there stands a moat fashioned in the far cons to guard the cradle of man's liberties.

And in the tideless sea the shimmering haze conceived in the marriage of blue waters and bronze sun cannot hide the great grim ships seeking, ever seeking the ghost fleet of the sons of the wolf, sulking in its lair. There are the masters of the Mediterranean, riding the lifeline of empire. The fair waters still christen the ensigns on which the sun never sets. So much so that the Queen Mary is sent with impunity from England to Suez, taking Tommy Atkins to "walk in front, sir, when there's trouble in the wind."

Kipling wrote also of an incident in which flames toppled a flagpole bearing the Union Jack, and crowds rent the air with shouts:

"Winds of the world, give answer?
They are whispering to and from—
And what should they know of England
Who only England know?
The poor little street-bred people that Vapor and fume and brag,
They are lifting their heads in the stillness
To yelp at the English flag."

The world reminds of that today as the bombs scream down on London, and it ponders how men and empire stand. He wrote, too, the answer:

"Never the lotus closes, never the wildfowl wake,
But a soul goes out on the east wind that died
For England's sake—
Man or woman or suckling, mother or bride or maid—Because on the bones of the English the English flag is stayed."

That is why the flag still dips in the rollers and Dunkerque knows no peace.

It was the Duce who cried, "I am not a man but an event." The belief that he is a world series is, however, slowly subsiding.

Hearing a news broadcast of anything as criminal as torpedoing refugee children, we wait for the police dispatcher's signature, "That is all."

The trumpeter swan, supposedly an extinct species, is discovered to be very much alive. A hot swan song, in the Louis Armstrong style, would be something.

While talk of civil war is bruited below the Rio Grande, we feel Mexico must be told that the American press can only offer it a position on Page 7, between ads.

Editorial Symposium

THIRD TERM ISSUE

"Mr. Wilkie has asked the American people to join with him, on October 23 (today), in observing a vital national tradition, now threatened by Mr. Roosevelt," says the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL, which adds: "He asks for country-wide rallies to do honor to the American system of representative government by protesting against the third term." And the PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN declares, "The third term is, of course, against American tradition as molded by Washington, Jefferson and Jackson. . . . Use of the office to perpetuate personal power is a real danger. Many feel that self-interest works unduly in favor of a man seeking a second term. But if the barriers existing in political habit to extension of tenure beyond a second term are leveled, the way is opened to abuses that would weaken the prestige of the office and its power for good service to the nation."

To the DENVER POST, "The third-term campaign is based brazenly upon the theory that the services of one man—Franklin D. Roosevelt—are indispensable to the American people." And the KANSAS CITY TIMES recalls that "Such an idea of 'my own individual importance' was 'fantastic' to Mr. Roosevelt eight years ago and would have been a betrayal of a common cause. Now it isn't fantastic, it isn't a betrayal and there is 'an indispensable man.' Mr. Roosevelt himself knows who he is."

On this same subject, the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD declares "It seems that the theory of indispensability is due to get a thorough examination. . . ." and quotes Michigan's Senator Vandenberg when he said, "According to official League of Nations reports, we (the United States) stood 17th among the nations in industrial recovery from 1929 to 1939. Almost every people on earth fared better than we did. . . . Does that sound as though Mr. Roosevelt knows all the answers?" And the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER insists, "With one possible exception—that of Washington—it may be safely argued that America has never yet had an indispensable man. Certainly it has none now."

On the other hand, the RALEIGH NEWS AND OBSERVER quotes from Columnist Paul Mallon "who could certainly not be classified as an administration supporter" as preaching "the funeral of the issue." "The third term issue has apparently been lost in the campaign. Two-thirds of the people in the United States believe the tradition is either silly or should not apply in times of crisis, according to the Fortune Poll" of late September. The News and Observer concludes, "That about sums up the situation."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

NEEDED; THE IDEAL MAN WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—The biggest and hardest job now open in the government is that of co-ordinator of the defense program. Suppose the President is re-elected, the man who is to be charged with this vitally important responsibility must possess an improbable combination of talents. For inspiring confidence in businessmen, for rubbing along comfortably with the New Dealers, and for working easily with the President.

If William Knudsen did not wish to concentrate his entire energy on the basic problem of production, he would, of course, be the best bet. As it is, however, the place is likely to go to an equally competent candidate, Donald Nelson, the defense council's procurement expert. Both within the defense council itself, and among most groups in the government, Nelson's eventual appointment as defense co-ordinator is virtually taken for granted. The only question regarded as uncertain is whether he will be vested with plenary powers as chairman of the defense council, or will be given some lesser title with his authority still stemming from the President.

MEET MR. NELSON Nelson is a big, energetic, self-contained, precise-minded man who came to the defense council from Sears, Roebuck & Co., where he had a broad experience in working with American industry which is rare among more specialized executives. Coming from Sears, Roebuck, he is without the kind of financial connection commonly regarded with suspicion in New Deal Washington. He is also extremely practical, devoid of the semi-superstitious terrors the government arouses in many businessmen, and willing to do government business in the government way.

Nelson has already shown himself so well able to get on with the New Deal-minded type in the government that he is the virtually acknowledged candidate of Defense Councilor Leon Henderson, and is thoroughly acceptable to the New Dealers who are no longer friendly. He is also approved by the defense councilors drawn from the ranks of business, such as Knudsen and Edward R. Stettinius, and by insisting on a period of trial for a voluntary priority system for defense orders, he has shown himself tender of sensibilities of businessmen in general. Finally, he has got on with the President better than any other individual now taking a leading part in the defense effort.

In short, Nelson offers the peculiar combination of qualifications which would be normally so difficult to find in one man. Under the circumstances, it is really something to be thankful for that he is ready to step in and is likely to do so. For the defense effort is now reaching the stage at which effective co-ordination is absolutely necessary. And the problems to be met by the future co-ordinator are constantly growing more thorny.

PRODUCTION HAS BEGUN Some $12,000,000,000 in contracts will have been let by the end of November. Production has begun. The bottle-necks, duplications of production, and wasted opportunities are beginning to obtrude themselves. For example, the navy's much needed flying boats are being produced by a company in Los Angeles. This company, for obscure reasons, subcontracted for the wings with another company in New York. This made trouble enough, since big airplane wings are both bulky and fragile, and therefore far from easy to transport all the way across the continent. The trouble was compounded when the subcontractor signed other contracts, delaying output of the wings. Production of the flying boats was actually stopped until a delegation of government officials headed by Assistant Secretary of the Navy James Forrestal visited both companies and straightened out the tangle.

If this sort of trouble crops up in many places, the defense effort itself will be crippled. It is going to crop up, unless certain issues are firmly met. More than one industry is now in the situation of the English aircraft industry before the advent of Lord Beaverbrook, when English airplane output was only half what it could be because some aircraft companies did not have the know-how of mass production, others were doing jobs they might have subcontracted, and still others were trying to carry too heavy a burden. Beaverbrook's answer, which will have to be the answer in this country, too, was to gather into his own hands some of the power over management of the industry, while leaving ownership and profits undisturbed.

Imitation of Beaverbrook's example will be considered a drastic step. So, too, for that matter, will enforcement of compulsory priorities on defense orders, which most members of the defense council now believe is becoming necessary. If the New Dealers move in on the defense program, it will be impossible to take steps of this sort with the needed consent from business. If the defense effort is not co-ordinated, taking such steps will be incalculably difficult. Luckily Nelson, who also understands the necessity for strong measures, represents a wise compromise between the growing belligerence of the New Dealers and the need for business consent.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

The Season Of The Year.

Now is with us the fall. One of the seasons of the year, like unto the others, when we gaze upon the beauties of nature and say, to ourselves and others, that this is the most beautiful.

When it is aesthetic delight to drive down streets and roads lined with trees which have changed their coloring to the rainbow hues of the drying leaves. When scarlet and brown and gold flaunt in masses of piled glory before the eye. When every moment some new splash of brilliant coloration draws spiritual gasps of astonishment and delight.

It is the season of the year when the zest of coming winter fills the air and you breathe deep of the coolness and feel new energy and ambition filling your bones, shaking off the lethargy induced by heavy summer.

It is, too, the season when the pungent tang of smoke from burning leaves gives fillip to your nostrils. It may be a gardening crime to burn leaves, it may even be a violation of the city ordinance herein provided, but the smell of burning leaves is something to revel in as in new sausage direct from the farm or fresh ground cane syrup.

There Is, Too, Football.

There is, too, football. There is the thrill of the contact of strong young bodies on the gridiron and the thrill of the packed crowds on the tiered stadium. There is the thrill of the eager young eyes and the excitement of the huge chrysanthemums and of colors and bands and band leaders and drum majorettes.

There is something about a football crowd altogether different from the crowds you find at other sports. The people may be the same, but the atmosphere is different and even the same people behave differently.

So far, football weather has been too hot. But the days, and nights, should be getting cooler soon and we will be able to huddle in overcoats and enjoy the gridiron game as it should be enjoyed.

There are the new feminine fashions that intrigue the eye and fall. Maybe it's just a personal idiosyncrasy, but somehow fall fashions, as viewed in the store windows and adorning the Peachtree parade of pulchritude always seem more exciting than new spring fashions. Maybe it is the furs and the fur-trimming. There is something about a pretty woman in the erstwhile hides of furry animals—

Things to Come.

Then, with the coming of fall, there is so much excitement just over the threshold of winter. Thanksgiving, with turkey and cranberry sauce and all its other ingredients. (Just a little of the white meat, please. Thank you!)

And Christmas will be here before we know it. With good-natured crowds packed deep around the store counters, seeking presents for Dad and Mom and Jim and Betty. And one extra special present for that most important he, or she.

And the feeling of goodwill to all, finding expression in gifts to the various special Christmas funds. The desire, deep in every heart, that no living soul shall go in want, or be unhappy, on Christmas Day.

The crowded streets, the Boy Scouts with their thin ropes encircling anti-jaywalking rules. The tinkle of Salvation Army bells and the happy laughter of packed thousands. The innumerable Santa Claus, or should it be Santa Claus?

The warmth of knowing that friends have remembered you, when you open gaily-wrapped packages on Christmas morning.

New Year, and the immortal sentiments of the day. The midnight parties and the good resolutions for the starting year.

The wassail and "God Save Ye, Merry Gentlemen."

The reading, annual rite, of Dickens' "Christmas Carol," and the glad sound of Christmas songs heard everywhere, in church, over radio and at all the shows.

The holly and mistletoe. The eggnog and the mince pie. The Christmas pudding and the extra special candy.

The visits to friends and the guests who drop in, at home, all day.

The general grand time. And the bills that will come in after January 1.

Fall is the grand season of the year, for what it brings and what it promises, too.

Officials of the Cathedral of Santo Tomas near Chihuahua, Mexico, have asked the police to aid in recovering a valuable ecclesiastical painting believed to have been stolen. Dating from the year 1807, it portrays the Immaculate Conception of the Virgin Mary.

Three-Day Carnival

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—This is the week of a three-day carnival of smorgasbord, refined entertainment and innocent fun arranged in honor of the debut of Captain James Roosevelt, United States Marine Corps, reserve, in a new field of business. Captain Roosevelt, the eagle of the dynasty, thus announces his association with the Mills Novelty Company of Chicago, the leading manufacturers of an innocent vending device which has been put to questionable uses by sinister characters in many sections of the country, described as the one-armed bandit and deplored by police and clergy as the mechanism of the corrupt slot machine racket.

Invitations to the gala read as follows:

"You are cordially invited by James Roosevelt and Fred Mills to attend the eastern premiere and exposition of Mills panorama machine and 'soundies' at the Waldorf-Astoria. Admission by this invitation only, bearer and party. Please reply on inclosed card to Fred Mills, Mills Novelty Company, Chicago."

The program inclosed with the invitation lists activities that began last Sunday with the "Mills open house," consisting of smorgasbord, or Swedish cold delicacies, and special entertainment under the direction of Miss Sixteen Brown, "the famous panorama girl," as hostess. Yesterday's program included the Fred Mills luncheon, a "press and celebrity" party, "soundies," an address by the eagle of the New Deal dynasty and the presentation of "stars of theatrical, radio and musical world."

Today's exercises, as announced in the program, provide an introduction of "celebrities" with this parenthetical enticement: "Have your picture taken with Jimmy Roosevelt."

Unworthy Thought

There will be those persons of ill-will and political bias, no doubt, who will enjoy believing that Captain Roosevelt's association with the company which for many years has manufactured the one-armed bandit by the thousands is indicative of something. That, however, is unworthy of any broad-minded American, for the fact is, of course, that the Mills Novelty Company has been pained by the misuse of its invention by low individuals in politics and the underworld to violate the law against gambling and to corrupt the administration of government and justice, all to the great detriment of American civic morality.

If a man manufactures shotguns, for example, is it his fault that a purchaser having low ideals and a warped notion of citizenship employs the same to blow a business rival full of rusty bolts and automobile parts? It is, indeed, not the fault of the manufacturer, the less so if, on offering the shotgun for sale, he gives a particular warning this device, if fired at a business rival, will produce results highly deleterious to that individual's health and to the peace and order of the community.

Can't Be Blamed

So, also, if the manufacturer of a vending machine gives notice that it should not be used to violate the laws respecting gambling, his responsibility to his Maker and his country has been nobly discharged. He certainly cannot be blamed for the sins of those who pervert an honest mechanism to uses which are not respectable.

In spite of the high purposes of the Mills Novelty Company in purveying little-stocked chewing gum evil groups in Chicago, New York, rural New England and the rural midwest and south, New Orleans, the Miami, California and New Jersey have persistently flouted the law. Millions of dollars have been obtained by this means, and in many communities lawless individuals have used part of their ill-gotten gains to bribe the local government and police to neglect their duty.

It hardly needs to be said—but it has been said in court proceedings—intended to enjoin the ownership and operation of the one-armed bandit—that the Mills Novelty Company regrets such misuse of its products.

Chief's Watch Stolen.

Bloodhounds and every other sleuth of the police force of Charleville, Australia, have failed to find the pickpocket who took the gold watch and chain of Chief J. T. Toohill, inspector to Queensland commissioner of police. Toohill had boasted that the timepiece had survived half a dozen police balls in Brisbane, where many pickpockets posed as friends of the force. But he had had only two dances at the Charleville police ball when the watch and chain vanished.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THAT POSSUM DOG He came in and pitched his hat on the desk, sat down, lit his pipe and relaxed.

"Been meaning to come to see you ever since I saw that possum dog story."

"What story?"

"That one from up at Elberton."

"What about it?"

"Well, this farmer fellow up at Elberton, name of Sheriff Starke, said his possum dog broke a leg but wanted to go hunting so bad he took him."

"No took who?"

"I mean the dog wanted to go, so the fellow took him. Maybe they both wanted to go. I would."

"What happened?"

"Well, the dog couldn't walk, of course, having a broken leg. So this Sheriff Starke said he put the dog in a wheelbarrow and they went hunting. The dog would just lie there in the wheelbarrow and hang his nose over the edge so he could trail."

"I don't guess they had much luck."

"What makes you think that?"

"Well, a dog with a busted leg in a wheelbarrow can't do much hunting."

"That's what you think. This dog trailed and treed four possums. That's a pretty fair night's work. You don't get many more possums than that if you have two possum dogs. And this fellow Starke had just one in a wheelbarrow. Must have been a good dog."

"Do you believe it?"

"Sure I believe it." It wasn't much out of the ordinary. Reminded me of the time I had a bird dog with a bad foot. Dog couldn't hunt. So I put him across the horse in front of the saddle and he hung his head over and found nine coveys of birds. I got off and got two out of the first four coveys, one out of the fifth, two out of the sixth and seventh and one each out of the next two. I think I got three in the last covey, but I couldn't put the dog down to find the last bird."

"I take it you didn't hunt singles."

"Certainly not. Not with a dog whose foot was so bad he couldn't walk."

"He didn't false point?"

"Not THAT dog."

IT REMINDED HIM I picked up some papers and tried to let him know there was work to be done. But he knocked out his pipe, refilled it, put a pile of matches on the desk, and sat back.

"This talk of hunting reminds me of a curious thing I had happen down at my kennel," he said.

"I was afraid it would."

"What did you say?"

"I said I was sure it would be good."

"It is. It was like this. One day one of my pointer pups got into a fight with a young pig. The pig did a lot of squealing, but he put up a fight. When I got there and kicked them apart the pig's nose was bleeding right bad from a gash where the pup had bit him and there was a good-sized piece of my pup's nose just about torn off."

"I never knew what made me do it, but I pulled that piece of loose meat off that pup's nose and stuck it in that gash on the pig's nose. I never thought anything about it until a week or so later. I happened to see that pig. I knew him because he had brown and black ticks, something like a dog. That piece of the pup's nose had grafted right in there as pretty as you please."

I stirred restlessly, picking up more papers. He relit his pipe. "Yes, sir," he said, "as pretty as you please."

I knew it was no use and sat back.

"THE POINTER PIG" "Well, sir," he said, "I didn't think any more about it until one day I was out back of the barn lot trying to get a blue darter that had been bothering the chickens. And so help me, if I didn't look over to one side a piece and there was that pig. He looked like he was standing at point."

"It was so curious looking I walked over there and kicked that fool pig. He let out a squeal and jumped forward, and so help me if one of the biggest coveys of quail I ever saw didn't flush. That got me interested. I trained that pig to get along with one of my young dogs. Well, sir, this pig and this pointer would go out together. They got to be a team. They worked together fine. You should have seen that pig honor that dog's point."

The setter people used to laugh. I remember once George Myshrahl told me to be sure and let Trammell Scott see that team, because the pointers had reached their proper status, hunting with a pig. But I let 'em laugh.

"What happened to him?" I asked feebly.

"Well, sir," he said, "he got old and too heavy to hunt. He was just too big and heavy. Also he got kind of onery and hard to handle. He was stuck on himself, I guess. So, one day I put him in the truck with some more hogs I was sending in to market and let him go."

Benny and I Weep Over Fate Of Dear Old Pal

Getting home from a country trip just in time to tune in to the last fourth of the Jack Benny radio program, I discovered that he and Mary and Rochester had at last gone down to a motor agency to trade in the ancient Maxwell. And just as Benny was about to write the check he discovered the dealer was going to put the Maxwell on the junk heap. So he called the deal off. With tears in his voice he declared he couldn't stand that.

Hundreds of folk who owned old horses have parted with them only on condition they shouldn't be hitched to junk wagons or put to other hard work. Indeed, many have agreed to pay board for them, so their shoes could be taken off and the old friends turned into a pleasant pasture for life.

An automobile, of course, is just a piece of machinery, made of steel and other metals. It has no feeling. Any other idea is just dumb foolishness.

But I've been forced to trade in about a dozen well-worn cars for newer models. And always I've wondered what became of them.

Passing Old Friends

I've recognized—or thought I did—a number of them. Usually driven by a Negro, and filled with family or friends.

A Negro house boy or occasional worker can wheedle me out of a suit of clothes I think fit only for the rag man. He will clean it, press it, and step out in it on a Sunday and make me wish I had it back. It fits him better than it ever fitted me and it looks like a Fifth Avenue Easter parade. It's the same with automobiles. Few Negroes, as I've observed, will invest in a good used car of the cheaper makes. They'll go for the big boys, great, heavy gas and oil gluttons. And start out for a long trip with paper-thin tires and suffer flats, which they'll patch up beside the road, and keep on being happy.

But Mr. Benny's tears over his Maxwell being junked impressed me. Because that was my first car. And I never had so much fun out of any car. I spent more time under it than in it, but we always got home.

That was a 1917 model. And I wonder what finally became of it. I wonder if it was converted into shells and fired by the Japanese at the Chinese. I wonder if a bit of it will some day be fired at us.

Every now and then, pausing before a red light, I remark that the repainted old buggy on our right looks as though it might be the car we traded in four years ago. And always there's a pang. She was a grand old bus. She took us there and brought us back. And always, I hope her owners are treating her well and that she's giving them the best she has—as she did for us.

Corn-Shuckin' Contest

Item for Carrollton tells of an old-fashioned corn-shucking contest in the Nixon's barn, with 53 shuckers taking part.

I like that, because I remember a few years ago when a feature writer of an Atlanta paper wrote a two-column story about a Georgia "husking bee." She'd read about the husking contests of New England and perhaps the corn country of the middle west.

But we don't have "husks" in Georgia. They're "shucks." One word is as good as another. But we prefer our own.

But we're changing—adopting the national language. I never heard of a skunk until I wore my fifth long pants suit. They were pole cats. Now we hear only of skunks. "But perhaps 'a pole cat' by any other name—etc."

By the way, what ever became of the grand old muskmelon, or "mushmelon?" We have nothing these days but canteloupes. Did the old muskmelon fade out, or is the Rocky Ford the same old fruit—or vegetable—with a fancier name?

Crash in Mid-Air

Six persons were killed in Arkansas Sunday when a plane bearing passengers became entangled in a parachute with which a stunt flyer was falling. One of those things which just couldn't happen—but did.

When flying became common we used to think there'd be plenty of room in the air—a three-dimensional field. A pilot can go right or left, up or down. Or straight ahead. I don't think he can go into reverse and back up, but I'm no pilot.

And yet there have been numerous instances of collision in mid-air. Army or Navy pilots flying in close formation. And occasionally two planes with all the world to fly in have crashed. Just as ships have collided in the open sea.

Maybe it's like my youthful experiences with a bicycle. I'd be pedalling down a wide open road when some pedestrian appeared ahead. She—it was usually a she—couldn't figure which way to dodge. Neither could I. And as inevitably as the steel is drawn to the magnet we'd have a bump. If we'd both met near the middle of the great Sahara desert it would have happened just the same.

Somewhere in the news I ran across a citizen whose first name is Uriah. First one I've heard of in real life. And even in literature Charles Dickens' Mr. Heep is unique, as far as I know.

But why not? It's a good Old Testament name. If I remember my Scriptures, I have known three men named Ananias—but I can't recall a Judas.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

"Say, here, I'm getting mighty tired waitin' for this tomorrow business," said one little boy to another little boy as they played in the side yard of a home where I was visiting a sick man the other day. As I left the house, I took a look over the banister rail, and they had gone. I don't know what the reference was in the above quoted statement.

Likely it was a small boy's way of expressing a very common fact of life, namely, the things we promise one another to do, but never do. We really intend to do them. We know that we ought to do them. But we allow them to go undone, day after day, week after week. And sometimes we never get to them.

Ever had it to happen in your own case? Maybe it was to visit that shut-in friend with whom you worked for years, or with whom you went to school back yonder in the bright, glad days of youth. Maybe it was to go and see about the cemetery lot that you intended to select before the solemn hour when some loved one was taken, and you were then forced to act in a hurry, regretting that you had not taken time for it when there was time. Maybe it was to have the plumber come and spect the pipes and find the leak, while it was still a leak. Maybe it was to go to the doctor and have a check-up when you felt that first slight pain which nature was using as a signal to do something while there was still ample time for correction.

To all these impulses you quietly said: "I'll do that tomorrow." And "tomorrow" was a handy way of putting off doing what you fully intended to do, but "tomorrow" never did come. And then, alas, it was too late.

He was going to be all that a mortal should be—

Tomorrow: No one should be kinder or braver than he—

Tomorrow: A friend who was troubled and weary he knew

Who'd be glad of a lift and who needed it, too;

On him he would call and see what he could do—

Tomorrow: Each morning he stacked up the letters he'd write—

Tomorrow: And he thought of the folks he would fill with delight—

Tomorrow: It was too bad, indeed, he was busy today,

And he hadn't a minute to stop on his way;

"More time I'll have to give others," he'd say—

"Tomorrow."

The greatest of workers this man would have been—

Tomorrow: The world would have known him had he even seen—

Tomorrow: But the fact is he died and he faded from view,

And all he left here when living was through

Was a mountain of things he intended to do—

Tomorrow.

RAILROAD DIRECTORS RELAX—If the director of a railroad didn't get his mind off his troubles now and then he would soon be in a strait-jacket. Here are three relaxing at Thomas K. Glenn's gun club at his home north of Sandy Springs yesterday after the first meeting of the N. C. & St. L. directors ever held outside of Nashville. Left to right are Mr. Glenn, a former director; Fitzgerald Hall, president of the line, shooting; Robert Strickland, president of the Trust Company of Georgia and a director of the railroad, and J. B. Hill, of Louisville, Ky., president of the L. & N. Railroad.

Even Break All Railroads Ask, Hall Says

N. C. and St. L. Directors Meet Here for First Time.

By HAROLD MARTIN.

If the government would give the railroads the same break it gives competing forms of transportation—if it put them all on the same basis, controlling all or controlling none—the transportation problem of this country would solve itself, Fitzgerald Hall, president of the N. C. & St. L. railroad, said here yesterday.

Mr. Hall, attending the first meeting of the roads' directors ever to be held outside of Nashville, declared:

"There are only three things we must do to solve the nation's transportation problem. First, let the laws of the land and the administration of those laws be the same, or relatively the same as regards to every form and agency of public transportation.

"Second, let the government confine its activities to where the Constitution of the United States expected them to be confined—to regulation in the public interest. Let government stop invading the field of management, in which the average officeholder is utterly incompetent.

Transportation Business. "Third, let the government get out of the transportation business and stay out. In fact, government should get out of all business and stay out.

"A fair field and no favor is all that any person, organization or institution in a democracy has a right to ask."

Mr. Hall pointed out that his road now pays its employees three times as much as it paid in 1916, and it pays three times as much in taxes. At the same time in that period its revenue has increased only 10 per cent, and its net profit, in 1939, was only 20 per cent of what it was in 1916.

The road is now operating 26 passenger trains a day and an average of 83 freight trains a day. In Georgia it operates six passenger trains and 18 freight trains a day.

Its total pay roll is $711,900 per month to 4,763 persons, of whom 830 live in Georgia and receive $119,300 per month. It pays a million dollars a year in taxes and spends over $3,000,000 a year for supplies and services.

It pays the state of Georgia $45,000 a month cash rental for the W. & A. railroad and spends more than $5,000 a month on this line on capital projects, aside from operating expenses.

In the 10 years ending in 1939 it paid out more than $84,000,000 in wages, $17,000,000 for the use of capital, $28,000,000 for materials and supplies, spent nearly $6,000,000 for improvements not counted as operating expenses, scrapped more than $7,000,000 worth of worn out equipment and lost, on its 10 years operations, a total of $1,025,860.27.

And through it all it has not borrowed a dime from the RFC, from the government, or from the banks.

Mr. Hall is fairly proud of that last item.

The meeting here drew the majority of the road's directors from throughout the south. It began with a breakfast at the Federal Reserve Bank, followed by a business meeting there, and continued with a luncheon at the Capital City Club, and skeet-shooting at Thomas K. Glenn's Glen Ridge Club, north of Sandy Springs. It concluded last night with a dinner at the Driving Club at which Mr. Hall spoke briefly.

Those attending the meeting were: C. A. Craig, Frank E. Gillette, P. D. Maddin, Charles Nelson, Will Norvell, George A. Schwab, John Sloan and Walter Stokes Jr., all of Nashville; J. B. Hill, of Louisville, Ky.; P. J. Krusel and Thomas R. Preston, of Chattanooga, and Robert Strickland, of Atlanta, at whose invitation the meeting was held here.

Atlanta Paper Strike Guards Are Fined $50

Suspended Sentences Given for Carrying Pistol Without License.

Three Atlanta Paper Company guards, placed on duty since the beginning of the union strike, were fined and given suspended sentences yesterday in Fulton criminal court on charges of carrying pistols without licenses. They were B. G. Benton, who was found guilty on two charge, and S. L. Holloman and H. S. Brooks. They were fined $50 on each count and given three-month suspended sentences. Benton was found not guilty of carrying a concealed weapon in recorder's court during a hearing there last month.

In the meantime, other developments in the paper company strike were: Judge Paul S. Etheridge took under consideration labor's plea for him to revoke or modify his injunction banning all picketing of the paper company plant, and hearings were postponed on contempt citations against strikers accused of violating the court's restraining orders prohibiting violence.

F. D. R.'s Mind Unchanged on Election Result

President Roosevelt Confirms Brooklyn Speech on Nov. 1.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had made a forecast of the presidential election outcome three weeks ago and that if he should make another at this time it would be substantially the same.

He made this statement at a press conference in reply to a question whether his election predictions were "still conservative."

He did not reveal any details, merely disclosing that his last forecast was made about three weeks ago. Then he added if he should redo it today there would be very little change.

The chief executive confirmed that a definite engagement had been made for him to speak from 8 to 8:30 p. m. (Atlantic time) November 1, in the Brooklyn Academy of Music.

This date does not necessarily supplant a previous speaking engagement for the night of October 30. The President told reporters that date was being kept open either for himself or some other party spokesman. It was nice, he added, to have open dates up your sleeve.

The President, who will start a final pre-election drive with a speech tomorrow night in Philadelphia, said he did not believe he would go into Maryland to make an address before election.

Asked whether he could indicate the trend of the remarks to be made in a radio address Friday night by John L. Lewis, CIO chief, who called on him recently, Mr. Roosevelt said he had not the faintest idea.

Mr. Roosevelt also said he did not expect to visit New England again before the election, but probably would make some defense tours of the middle west after the presidential race is over.

WILL PRESERVE U. S. SYSTEM, WILKIE SAYS

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Wendell L. Wilkie called upon the nation tonight to send him to the White House "to preserve our American system of government and free enterprise—to keep us out of war—and to speed up our defenses."

At another point in a nationally broadcast interview from his campaign railway car the Republican presidential candidate reiterated his stand for "more effective aid to Great Britain," and declared that:

"We must ask ourselves if an administration which has been unable to solve our peace-time problems for seven years can be trusted to solve the more difficult war problems. We must ask ourselves whether an administration which has weakened us at home can carry any weight in the brutal world of today."

Answering questions sent from various parts of the country in the third of a series of interviews sponsored by the Associated Wilkie Clubs of America, the candidate asserted that with the exception of defense industries, "few established industries have expanded and only a few new enterprises have been established."

BIDDLE ATTACKS DICTATORSHIP CHARGES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Solicitor General Francis Biddle said tonight that dictator charges leveled at President Roosevelt reflected the "false defensiveness of desperate men."

"A dictator suppresses free speech and a free press," he said, in an address to a meeting of "Harvard Lawyers for Roosevelt."

WEDDING CLIMAXES FESTIVAL IN CORDELE

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION, CORDELE, Ga., Oct. 22.—The Crisp county 4-H Club fair was climaxed Friday night with a stage wedding.

The principals of wedding were: Mr. Ruth Calhoun, of Cone, a 4-H Club member for farmers, and J. W. Chapman, of Sumter county. The Rev. J. C. Weather, of Cordele, performed the ceremony which was witnessed by a throng of interested spectators. The stage was beautifully decorated and lighted and the bride was attired in a wedding costume of Nile green with accessories of black. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of tulle and roses.

The groom is a farmer and the young couple will make their home in Sumter county.

Auction of Pecans Begins in Vidalia

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION, VIDALIA, Ga., Oct. 22.—First official quotations for pecans were furnished at the Georgia pecan auction here today when the initial sale of the 1940 season brought out 2,000 pounds of pecans.

The assignment of serial numbers to each lot of pecans was completed at the head-quarters of each local board before 12 o'clock Saturday. It is through this list that registrants may learn the serial numbers they have been given.

Each registrant is urged to go to the headquarters of his local board after Saturday noon and ascertain his serial number. It is from his serial number that he will learn his order number Tuesday, and the order in which he will be called.

Leg Knife Wound Kills Atlantan, 20

The death of James Jasper Canup, 20-year-old packing house employee, who suffered a knife wound in the leg yesterday, was termed accidental by Coroner Paul Doneho and investigating detectives.

Mrs. Canup told the coroner her husband was in the kitchen of their home, 554 Pulliam street, slicing meat, when the knife slipped, slashing his leg and severing an artery. Canup died while being taken to Grady hospital.

In addition to Mrs. Canup, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Canup, two sisters, Mrs. D. W. Coker, of Barnesboro, Pa., and Mrs. Kathryn Dove, of Hapeville, and a brother, Cecil Canup. Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

BARLEY TO SPEAK

FOR F. D. R., WALLACE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, senate majority leader, will make a series of speeches in Illinois, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri for the Roosevelt-Wallace ticket between now and election day.

Democratic headquarters also announced that Governor Jones, of Louisiana, will take the stump for President Roosevelt in the Midwest.

Senator Barkley asserted today that Wendell L. Wilkie—in case he is elected—would be unable to withstand the pressure of the opponents of the New Deal acts who are supporting him.

MYSTERY DEVELOPS

ON LEWIS' BROADCAST

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—John L. Lewis, head of the CIO's estimated 4,000,000 members, will break his silence on the political situation Friday night, but a first-stage mystery developed today over whether Wendell Wilkie was relinquishing radio time to give Lewis a larger audience.

This much was known: That the half-hour spot on one network taken by Lewis had previously been reserved for the Republican presidential candidate—and then cancelled. But all Republican sources were officially silent as to whether the moves were connected.

Lewis has reserved the 8 to 8:30 p. m. (Atlantic time) period on the three major networks—NBC, CBS and MBS—to give him an outlet through approximately 300 stations reaching a potential audience, radio survey concerns say, of upwards of 30,000,000 persons.

F. D. R. JR. OFFERS TO DEBATE HECKLER

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. today offered to debate a heckler during a Drake University students' meeting here.

Interrupted by occasional shouts of "Yeah, Wilkie," the President's son said:

"I asked that fellow once to come up here and say that I would just love to debate him."

"Why didn't you, father accept?" somebody asked.

"Why don't you ask him?" Roosevelt countered, then continued:

"I'll tell you why he didn't accept the offer to go and speak in Baltimore on the same platform with Wilkie, you are going to ask a friend to your house for dinner, you send a personal invitation, don't you?"

"Wilkie asked the President through the press. Do I go and take an ad in the local paper that I want Mr. Jones to come to my house on a Saturday night, if he happens to be in it?"

"Besides, if the President ever got on the same platform with Wilkie, Wilkie would withdraw his nomination for the presidency."

The crowd applauded.

Reward Raised In Search for Grave Criminal

Walton County Board Increases Sum From $500 to $1,000.

LOGANVILLE, Ga., Oct. 22.—Convinced that the ghoul who opened the grave of Mrs. W. I. Bennett here last July can be brought to justice, P. D. Briscoe, chairman of the board of commissioners of Walton county, last night said that the reward in the case had been raised from $500 to $1,000.

"The people of this county are determined that crime shall not go unsolved," Briscoe said. "We believe that with the clues we have, a little expert investigation would finally lead to the guilty party. If raising the reward will encourage some good private detective to work on the case we will be glad to turn over to him what our own investigation has revealed and will give him every help we can."

The present reward is made up of $500 from Walton county, $250 from the state, $100 from the city of Loganville and $150 from citizens of the county.

Briscoe's body, mutilated, was found lying halfway out of her open grave the day after her funeral. Tools used to open the grave were found near by and later the ax used to chop open the coffin was found buried in a mudhole in a road near the cemetery.

Draft Boards Make Ready To Assign Figures

A. Wilson and W. B. Kimble, A medical advisor and appeals agent will be named later.

Meanwhile, local draft boards in the metropolitan area rushed through the final stages of their organization. Membership in most of them was complete; only a few boards reported the absence of a clerk or one of the two non-voting members.

A few boards complained that office equipment, and even office space, was difficult to find. An appeal was sent out to persons willing to lend equipment, urging them to contact selective service headquarters.

List Completed.

Headquarters also announced the selection of the Greene county draft board, completing the list of Georgia's 188 boards. Members are L. P. Maxey, of Woodville; A. O. Morehead, of Greensboro; R. B. Weil, of Greensboro; Medical Advisor E. G. Adams and Appeal Agent J. G. Foust.

In Washington National Selective Service Director Clarence A. Dykstra said that Georgia is the only state for which local boards have not been formally appointed. Registration cards for local boards outside the city limits were handed to clerks yesterday morning after selective service officials and members of the staff of County School Superintendent Jere Wells completed the assortment. These boards are expected to begin serializing today.

City boards and the three DeKalb county boards probably will assign serial numbers tomorrow afternoon or night.

First to report selection of serial numbers was Covetta county, where the first four numbers were assigned to Hal L. Jones, Horace Lualien, Charley Glass and Albert W. Upshaw. The numbers were drawn by Judge W. L. Stallings at the opening of Newman city court.

It was emphasized by draft officials that the order in which serial numbers are assigned by local boards will not determine the order in which registrants will be called to a year of military training. The order, it was explained, will be determined by the selection of numbers in the National Lottery to be held in Washington. The assignment of serial numbers will be posted at the headquarters of each local board before 12 o'clock Saturday. It is through this list that registrants may learn the serial numbers they have been given.

Each registrant is urged to go to the headquarters of his local board after Saturday noon and ascertain his serial number. It is from his serial number that he will learn his order number Tuesday, and the order in which he will be called.

Leg Knife Wound Kills Atlantan, 20

The death of James Jasper Canup, 20-year-old packing house employee, who suffered a knife wound in the leg yesterday, was termed accidental by Coroner Paul Doneho and investigating detectives.

Mrs. Canup told the coroner her husband was in the kitchen of their home, 554 Pulliam street, slicing meat, when the knife slipped, slashing his leg and severing an artery. Canup died while being taken to Grady hospital.

In addition to Mrs. Canup, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Canup, two sisters, Mrs. D. W. Coker, of Barnesboro, Pa., and Mrs. Kathryn Dove, of Hapeville, and a brother, Cecil Canup. Funeral arrangements will be announced by J. Austin Dillon.

SHIPS ARE WARNED

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Rumania warned all ships to leave tonight against trying to enter Constanta or Mangalia after dark because lighthouse beacons have been shut off in connection with the nation-wide blackout.

Army Reveals Plans for 29 Reception Sites

Recruits Will Be Clothed, Classified, Started in Training.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The army announced today its plans for 29 reception centers at army posts and stations, where before they are sent to join regular units or to receive additional training at replacement centers.

The recruits will be issued clothing and personal equipment, classified as to the type of training for which they are best fitted, and given one month of basic training before they are sent to join regular units or to receive additional training at replacement centers.

They will occupy buildings of the cantonment type—temporary wooden barracks and other structures. The army said building plans for a 500-man center complete an administrative building, recruit receiving building and warehouse, 10 (63-man) barracks, a cafeteria, quarters for the camp commander and for 10 officers.

For a 1,000-man center, the number of barracks would be doubled, the size of the administrative and other general buildings increased, and quarters provided for 14 officers. For a 2,000-man center, there would be 30 barracks and quarters for 24 officers.

In addition, plans for each station call for a post exchange, recreation building, infirmary, fire station, guard house, theater and any necessary utility installations. The station hospital of the regular garrison at each post will be enlarged to provide adequate hospitalization for the reception centers, the army said.

Among the reception centers, with the army's revised estimate of the capacity were:

Fort Devens, Mass., 2,000; Camp Upton, N. Y., 2,000; Fort Niagara, N. Y., 850; Camp Lee, Va., 1,000; Fort Meade, Md., 1,500; Fort McPherson, Ga., 1,000; Camp Shelby, Miss., 1,000; Camp Blanding, Fla., 500; Fort Bragg, N. C., 1,000; Camp Robinson, Ark., 500.

BIDS OPENED TODAY ON MCIPHERSON CENTER

Bids will be opened today by the Constructing Quartermaster, Atlanta area, on the Fort McPherson reception center, estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000. The center is located on the old site of the old McPherson center, which was destroyed by fire in 1917. The center is to be a permanent structure and will be used for the reception and training of recruits.

Draft Lottery To Be Conducted Under Rigid Rules

Draft Board News FOR FULTON AND DEKALB COUNTIES

Here is an account of the activities to date of the 20 draft boards in Fulton and DeKalb counties. With the report of each board is a listing of the area served by the board, the members, and, where offices have been selected, the headquarters.

Board No. 1

That part of Ward No. 1 lying west of the center of Grant street. Members: Harry Magbee, Walter McNeil, Jr., and Ed S. Cook. Medical advisor: Dr. J. H. Ehrig. Appeal agent: W. W. Gaine. Headquarters: To be announced.

A meeting of board No. 1 was held yesterday, but absence of one of the members delayed any action on the selection of a permanent headquarters. Clerk William C. McRae said yesterday afternoon. Another meeting is tentatively scheduled for today.

Pending selection of a permanent site, temporary headquarters will be located at the office of the clerk, William C. McRae, Atlanta attorney, 704 First National Bank building.

Board No. 2

Boundaries: That part of Wards Nos. 1 and 2 which lie between Grant street and Moreland avenues. Members: W. Lee Sorrells, Paul Chipman and David Gray. Freeman Hardley is appeal agent. Headquarters: Confederate Soldiers' Home (Temporary).

At a meeting yesterday this board elected Sorrells chairman and Chipman secretary. Until more definite arrangements can be made, it will operate from the Confederate Soldiers' Home.

No clerk has been appointed by this board, but that appointment is expected today. A medical advisor has not been assigned by the Governor.

Board No. 3

That part of Ward No. 3 lying south of the center of Simpson street and west of West Peachtree street. Members: Fred Collier, Leo A. Wilson and W. B. Kimble. Headquarters: To be announced.

Governor Rivers yesterday announced the appointment of three members of the third Fulton county draft board.

A medical advisor and appeals agent will be announced later, the Governor said.

Members are: Fred Collier, auditor of the Henry Grady hotel; Leo A. Wilson, of 121 Linden street, statistician with the Coca Cola Company, and W. B. Kimble, Fulton county juvenile court probation officer.

An organization meeting of the board is scheduled for an early date.

Board No. 4

That part of Ward No. 3 lying north of the center of Simpson street and east of West Peachtree street. Members: Charles W. Bernhard, S. W. Sharpe, R. F. Woodward, medical advisor; Dr. W. F. Smith, appeal agent; T. A. McGhee. Headquarters: 535 Luckie street.

Headquarters of Board No. 3 has been established in the Luckie street branch of the Carnegie library. Clerk L. G. Cook reported yesterday.

Cook yesterday served as supervisor at the classification of the nearly 50,000 city draft cards at the new post office.

Board No. 5

That part of Ward No. 5 lying north and east of the center of Gordon street and the center of the A. B. & C. Railroad right-of-way. Members: W. M. Gililand, G. P. Freeman Jr., J. S. Hagy. Medical advisor: Ernest D. Bass. Headquarters: 821 1/2 Gordon street.

Offices of Board No. 5 have been established at 821 1/2 Gordon street, Board Member C. P. Freeman Jr. said yesterday. A telephone and office furnishings probably will be installed some time today, he said.

Numbering of the registration cards will be begun as soon as they are delivered to the board.

Board No. 6

That part of Ward No. 4 lying south and west of the center of Gordon street and the center of the A. B. & C. Railroad right-of-way. Members: H. W. Drane, chairman; W. Watson and T. J. Fulton. Dr. J. C. Stewart, medical advisor; Roy Davis, appeal agent, and Mrs. Gertrude L. Kilpatrick, clerk. Headquarters: in the Masonic Lodge at Dill and Stewart avenues.

Dan W. Watson was elected secretary of Draft Board No. 6, and the headquarters was selected at a meeting of the board Sunday, after inspecting several offices. There is ample room for both white and Negro registrants and an office for the board doctor, H. W. Drane said.

Shuffling the cards for serial numbers will begin at noon today or as soon as the cards are available from state headquarters. The three members of the board have arranged for complete office organization has been completed, until the number of cards the office will handle has been determined.

Board No. 7

That portion of Ward No. 5 lying south of the center of North avenue. Members: O. C. Puckett, chairman; E. H. (Fats) Elrod and W. E. Hopkins. Dr. John Thomson, medical advisor; L. O. Surles, appeal agent; W. R. Waldrep, clerk; temporary headquarters at Fire Station No. 6, Auburn avenue and Boulevard.

W. E. Hopkins has been named secretary of the board. The members met last night and completed plans for the opening of the temporary offices this morning. Work on the cards, which will be serial numbered, will begin this afternoon. Miss Ruth Kilgore has been named clerk's assistant.

Board No. 8

That portion of the Fifth Ward bounded on the east by Peachtree, on the south by North avenue, on the west by Hemphill avenue and on the north and northwest by the city limits. Board chairman: W. R. Neel and William M. Kemp. Medical advisor: Leslie B. Robinson; appeals agent: Stephens Mitchell; Mrs. Dorothy Rivers, clerk. Headquarters: 16 Rhodes Center.

Chairmanned by Dr. Robert Burns, pastor of Peachtree Christian church and one of Atlanta's most active civic leaders, Board No. 8 is ready to start numbering the cards assigned them when they arrive today. The board rented an office yesterday at 16 Rhodes Center, and furnished it with tables and chairs donated by Rhodes Perdue. Mrs. Dorothy Rivers, clerk, reported last night that she had had a hard day straightening out the office, and was ready to get down to serious work today. At the first meeting of the board, W. R. Neel, state highway engineer, was named secretary. The other member, William M. Kemp, is an employee of the Capitol theater. Mrs. Rivers, the clerk, is a daughter-in-law of the Governor, while the board's appeal agent, Stephens Mitchell, is an Atlanta attorney, an authority on the city's history and brother of the author of "Gone With the Wind."

Board No. 9

The boundaries, not yet announced, include territory in the Fifth Ward east of Peachtree street and north of North avenue, not included in Draft Board No. 8. Members: Ralph McGill, J. Clayton Burke, Stiles B. Burroughs. Medical advisor: Dr. Bolling Gay. Appeals agent: Henry B. Troutman. Headquarters: 821 1/2 Peachtree street, Office 1, second floor.

Meeting yesterday at the Elks Club, of which Board Member J.

Clayton Burke is secretary, the ninth draft board yesterday selected an office at 827 1-2 Peachtree street as headquarters, Ralph McGill, chairman, reported last night. Appointment of Will Riley as clerk was also announced by McGill.

The office will probably be open for business by noon today, McGill said. A telephone will be installed sometime today also, he reported.

At a meeting yesterday, the board decided that when the registration cards are delivered, a public meeting will be held for the shuffling of the cards, prior to numbering, probably in the auditorium of the Clark Howell school.

Board No. 10

That portion of the Sixth Ward in Fulton county lying north of Virginia avenue. Members: H. C. Fabian, chairman; H. A. Blanchard and Joseph Davidson. Medical advisor: Dr. M. B. Copehoff. Appeals agent: Harry McCowen, and F. H. Grant, clerk. Headquarters: Fire Station No. 19 at Los Angeles and Highland avenues.

Headquarters of Board No. 10 will open today in rooms loaned by Fire Station No. 19. All office equipment has been loaned by the First National Bank of Atlanta, and work of shuffling and placing serial numbers on the cards will begin immediately on receipt of the cards from state headquarters, probably this afternoon, Mr. Fabian, board chairman, announced yesterday.

Board No. 11

All that part of the Sixth ward in Fulton county lying south of Virginia avenue. Members: Hugh Hall Jackson, chairman; Fred H. King and B. Frank Walker. Medical advisor: Dr. J. C. Vinton. Appeals agent: Fred P. Allen, and Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, clerk. Headquarters: in Inman Park school, at Waddell and Edgewood avenues.

Members of the draft Board No. 11 will begin work today in offices in the Inman Park school, where cards for serial numbers will be assembled this afternoon, Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, clerk, said. All clerk's assistants will be appointed following the receipt of cards from state headquarters.

Board No. 12

East Point, Black Hall and Bryant mill districts. Dr. Preston Sumner, East Point, chairman; R. J. Adams, Lakewood avenue; William A. Lynn, Ben Hill; Dr. Adamsville, McGehee, Ben Hill, medical advisor; E. C. Yarborough, appeals agent; head quarters, 101 1/2 North Main street, East Point; Miss Ida Wells, clerk.

Members of Fulton county's Draft Board No. 12 yesterday began the work of assigning serial numbers to the more than 2,300 young men under its jurisdiction subject to military service.

Under the leadership of Dr. Preston Sumner, of East Point, chairman, the group met at 2 o'clock to begin shuffling the registration cards and assigning numbers to all registrants in preparation for the National Lottery in Washington next Tuesday.

In spite of the large number of persons registered in its district, members of the board expressed the belief that they would complete their work well in advance of the Saturday noon deadline.

Board No. 13

College Park, Hapeville and South Decatur districts. George F. Engle, College Park, chairman; Major Eugene King, Hapeville; Jessie F. Monroe, 131 Adair avenue, S. E., Hapeville; Hapeville, medical advisor; Jack H. Gray, Hapeville, appeal agent; headquarters, Council Chamber, City Hall, College Park; T. H. Porch, clerk.

Members of Draft Board No. 13 yesterday plunged into the task of giving serial numbers to the 3,246 registrants under their jurisdiction eligible for military training.

Following the organization meeting held in the office of the mayor at the city hall, College Park, the three voting members of the board, assisted by the medical advisor and the clerk, began to sort registration cards, checking to see that the number of registrants recorded at each school was checked with the number on hand.

A couple of hours was necessary to complete this preliminary task. Then began the real work, according to Chairman Longino. Each card had to be checked to see if it belonged in the College Park or Hapeville district.

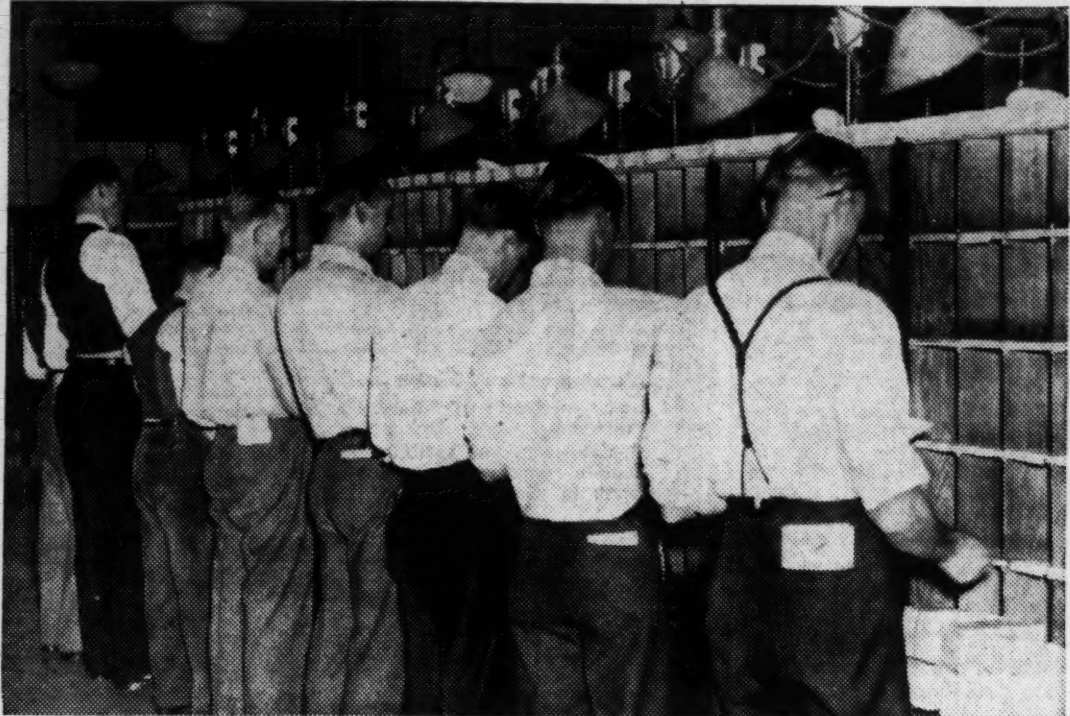

A large number of the cards belonged to out-of-town or out-of-state registrants who had registered in the schools of Hapeville, College Park, or nearby county schools. Visitors who found themselves in College Park on October 16, included residents of Miami, Fla.; Dallas, Tex.; Waycross, Ga.; New York, as well as persons who live in Atlanta and other nearby communities.

This sorting process went on into the night.

"We probably will be holding a continuous meeting," Chairman George F. Longino said. "We will all be pretty busy from now 'til Saturday."

Today Draft Board No. 13 plans to hold a public ceremony for the shuffling process and the little drawing which will determine the serial numbers which will be assigned all young men in the district between the ages of 21 and 35.

Members of Draft Board No. 13 plan to complete the assignment of serial numbers by Friday. In fact, Chairman Longino said the group which he heads would at-

CURE FOR HEADACHE—Sorting registration cards was a tremendous headache to draft officials, but it was just a matter of routine to the Atlanta post office. Giving up the job as almost hopeless, draft officials turned the job over to the post office yesterday. Eight post office clerks soon had the cards neatly arranged by wards, ready to be delivered to the proper draft board chairmen today.

Atlanta Firm To Print Draft Questionnaires

Also Wins Contract for 600,000 Classification Notices.

Contract for printing 250,000 selective service questionnaires yesterday was awarded Dittler Brothers, of Atlanta, with a bid of $1,562.50.

The eight-page questionnaires will be filled out by registrants following the National Lottery Tuesday and the information contained in them will lead to possible deferments from military service.

Dittler Brothers also won a contract to print 600,000 classification notices at $330. These notices will be sent to registrants after local draft boards have acted on the questionnaires.

The Williams Printing Company, of Atlanta, won the bid to print 30,000 notices to registrants. The bids were announced by Major LeRoy Cowart, United States property and disbursing officer.

tempt to complete its list first of any board in the state.

Board No. 14

Peachtree, Buckhead and Oak Grove districts, comprising that section of Fulton county between the northern city limits and Chattahoochee river with the exception of College and Groves districts. Board members: Carl B. Copeland, chairman; William Erb, secretary; Robert A. Boggs, Jr., Hapeville, medical advisor and Marvin Roberts, appeals agent; Morris J. Gorman, Hapeville, medical advisor; J. H. Gray, Hapeville, appeal agent; headquarters, Council Chamber, City Hall, College Park; T. H. Porch, clerk.

Board No. 14 plans to establish an office in Buckhead, the center of its district, as soon as arrangements can be made. In the meanwhile, all activities will center in Copeland's downtown office.

Copeland, now a patient at U. S. Hospital No. 48, is expected to be up and around again in a few days. During his absence the board's affairs are being handled by Erb and Brand. Erb, a telephone company executive, is a retired National Guard major. Brand is in the county ordinary's office. Gorman, the board's clerk, was until his appointment a stenographer in Governor Rivers' office.

Board No. 15

Poole, Adamsville, Center Hill, Bolton, Chum and Cooke's mill districts. Charles B. Gramling, Bolton, chairman; J. A. Peterson, Adamsville, secretary; Robert A. Boggs, Jr., Hapeville, medical advisor; E. L. Springer, appeals agent. Headquarters not yet selected.

Charles B. Gramling, of Bolton, yesterday was elected chairman of Draft Board No. 15 at the organization meeting of that body. J. A. Peterson was named secretary.

The group will meet again at 7 o'clock tonight at the chairman's office at the River pumping station to select a clerk and headquarters.

Board No. 16

That part of Fulton county that was formerly Milton county, including Groves district and that part of Roswell district that was formerly Cobb county. Cliff T. Vaughn, Roswell, chairman; J. J. Rucker, Alpharetta; Howell Manning, Alpharetta; Dr. J. N. Ezzard, medical advisor; H. R. Adams, appeals agent. Headquarters, old courthouse, Alpharetta; Claude Rainwater, clerk.

Preliminaries incidental to the assigning of serial numbers to young men of draft age within the jurisdiction of Fulton county's Draft Board No. 16 will begin at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

DeKalb County Board No. 1

Boundaries—all parts of the city of Atlanta lying in DeKalb county, that is, the city of Atlanta east of Moreland avenue. Members are L. J. Cassels, O. T. Brewer and J. Roy Almond. Dr. W. P. Smith is medical advisor. Headquarters are at Mayson and DeKalb avenues.

This board has not held a meeting since its organization last week when Cassels was named chairman and Brewer was selected as secretary.

Members have been waiting the distribution of registration cards, which they expect to assign serial numbers within 24 hours after delivery.

Temporary headquarters will be located in today's courtroom of the civil court of DeKalb county. Later the board expects to occupy three office rooms in the court building on Mayson and DeKalb avenues.

Working late last night, the group began listing the numbers as they were assigned.

Approximately 3,000 registrants were included in the number to be handled by the south Fulton board, which covers Fairburn, Egan, Union City, Palmetto and rural sections of the county lying south of the city limits of East Point and Hapeville.

What had been a herculean task became a matter of routine. Within an hour after the registration forms arrived at the new post office yesterday morning, postal officials had erected a line of eight sorting cases to handle the cards.

10,000 an Hour. Thirty minutes later, four men were at work sorting the cards alphabetically by street addresses. An hour later, another four men had been added to the registration crew and the white cards were dropping into their proper compartments at the rate of 10,000 an hour.

Less than six hours after the job was begun, the nearly 50,000 cards had been arranged alphabetically by the first letter of the street address.

The cards were then resorted by the first two alphabetical letters: Aa; Ab; Ac; etc.

Matter of Minutes. When the task was finished, each card was sorted so accurately that the task of arranging into street classifications was but a matter of minutes.

After all the street classifications had been made, the piles were arranged into wards, and finally, into draft board districts. Neatly classified, approximately 16 hours after the job was begun, they were turned over to state officials to be returned to the capitol, to await delivery to draft board chairmen today.

So smoothly was the job done that regular work at the post office was not even interrupted.

"A mere matter of 50,000 pieces to be classified, why that's just routine," was the comment of W. H. Trezevant, superintendent of mails.

The board met last night for an organization meeting but adjourned until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. McKinney announced that following today's meeting the board would reveal its officers, the names of its clerk and assistant clerk and the location of its headquarters.

Progress has been delayed, according to McKinney, because of a question of boundaries. Originally the board was assigned to Decatur alone. However, Druid Hills and other residential areas may be added.

Registration cards for the board are still in the possession of Superintendent of Schools W. M. Rainey, but will be distributed when the boundaries are set.

DeKalb County Board No. 3

Boundaries: All parts of DeKalb county not included in Atlanta, Decatur and Druid Hills. Members: E. D. Jordan, C. M. Carroll, D. A. Winfree, Dr. W. A. Mendenhall, medical advisor, and K. D. Howington, appeal agent. Headquarters: Tucker library.

Serial numbers will be assigned to more than 3,000 cards in this draft board area at a public ceremony beginning at 3 o'clock this afternoon in front of the headquarters.

A small child will be selected to draw the first card and give it Serial No. 1. The remainder

Draft Cards Sorted Quickly By Post Office

Herculean Task Becomes Mere 'Routine' for Mail Workers.

Draft officials, overwhelmed by the gigantic total of city of Atlanta registration cards to be sorted and classified by addresses and districts; yesterday abandoned the task as well nigh hopeless and turned the job over to Ugly Sam's post office.

The results were amazing. What had been a herculean task became a matter of routine. Within an hour after the registration forms arrived at the new post office yesterday morning, postal officials had erected a line of eight sorting cases to handle the cards.

10,000 an Hour. Thirty minutes later, four men were at work sorting the cards alphabetically by street addresses. An hour later, another four men had been added to the registration crew and the white cards were dropping into their proper compartments at the rate of 10,000 an hour.

Less than six hours after the job was begun, the nearly 50,000 cards had been arranged alphabetically by the first letter of the street address.

The cards were then resorted by the first two alphabetical letters: Aa; Ab; Ac; etc.

Matter of Minutes. When the task was finished, each card was sorted so accurately that the task of arranging into street classifications was but a matter of minutes.

After all the street classifications had been made, the piles were arranged into wards, and finally, into draft board districts. Neatly classified, approximately 16 hours after the job was begun, they were turned over to state officials to be returned to the capitol, to await delivery to draft board chairmen today.

So smoothly was the job done that regular work at the post office was not even interrupted.

"A mere matter of 50,000 pieces to be classified, why that's just routine," was the comment of W. H. Trezevant, superintendent of mails.

The board met last night for an organization meeting but adjourned until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. McKinney announced that following today's meeting the board would reveal its officers, the names of its clerk and assistant clerk and the location of its headquarters.

Progress has been delayed, according to McKinney, because of a question of boundaries. Originally the board was assigned to Decatur alone. However, Druid Hills and other residential areas may be added.

Registration cards for the board are still in the possession of Superintendent of Schools W. M. Rainey, but will be distributed when the boundaries are set.

DeKalb County Board No. 2

Boundaries—all parts of the city of Atlanta lying in DeKalb county, that is, the city of Atlanta east of Moreland avenue. Members are L. J. Cassels, O. T. Brewer and J. Roy Almond. Dr. W. P. Smith is medical advisor. Headquarters are at Mayson and DeKalb avenues.

This board has not held a meeting since its organization last week when Cassels was named chairman and Brewer was selected as secretary.

Members have been waiting the distribution of registration cards, which they expect to assign serial numbers within 24 hours after delivery.

Temporary headquarters will be located in today's courtroom of the civil court of DeKalb county. Later the board expects to occupy three office rooms in the court building on Mayson and DeKalb avenues.

Working late last night, the group began listing the numbers as they were assigned.

Approximately 3,000 registrants were included in the number to be handled by the south Fulton board, which covers Fairburn, Egan, Union City, Palmetto and rural sections of the county lying south of the city limits of East Point and Hapeville.

What had been a herculean task became a matter of routine. Within an hour after the registration forms arrived at the new post office yesterday morning, postal officials had erected a line of eight sorting cases to handle the cards.

12 to 15 Hours Will Be Needed For Drawings

Each Number To Be Photographed, Placed With Archives.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Three devices will be employed next Tuesday to make an unalterable record of the National Draft Lottery in an effort to prevent inaccuracies and to protect the interests of draft-age men.

National selective service headquarters announced today that—

1. A speed camera will make a photograph of each serial number on a strip of miniature film in the order in which each one is drawn from the big glass bowl in the departmental auditorium. Photographed with the actual number itself will be a clock showing the exact time and date it was drawn.

2. Each number as it is drawn will be fastened to a gummed sheet of cardboard which will become a permanent master record of the draft order numbers.

3. Each sheet of the master record, with 100 numbers to each sheet, will be photographed, and from those photographs will be made printing plates. The plates will be used to print copies of the master list for distribution to the 6,500 local selective service boards throughout the country.

Sped to Papers. Each number will be called out over a public address system, with amplifiers inside and outside the auditorium, and will be posted on a blackboard for spectators inside the hall. News agencies will speed the numbers across country to thousands of newspapers, and radio will pick up the calling of the lottery.

The master list of serial numbers will determine the order in which men will be called to service from every local board area, unless they volunteer or are deferred.

All three of the permanent records of the draft drawing will be enshrined in the National Archives, along with the photographic records.

Arrangements for the drawing, which will be started by Secretary Simson in the presence of President Roosevelt at noon, October 29, proceeded rapidly at national headquarters today.

On Friday afternoon, a crew of six people will start the 36-hour task of stuffing serial numbers in non-transparent, blue-lined capsules. When filled, the capsules will be locked in a safe under military guard.

From 1 On Up. It is not yet known exactly how many numbers, ranging from 1 up, will be needed, but enough will be dumped into the "goldfish bowl" to cover the largest number of registrants in any one local board area, with some additional to take care of late legislations, errors and transfers.

The number is expected to run over 7,500; and 12 to 15 hours, beginning shortly after noon, will be required to draw all of them.

Lieutenant Colonel Charles R. Morris, inactive reserve officer, of Elizabeth, N. J., who planned the 1917 draft drawing, will begin training three crews of 30 volunteers each on Monday to conduct the drawing after the first few numbers have been pulled out by Secretary Simson and other dignitaries. Made up of ex-service men and others, the crews will include tellers, clerks, men to draw the numbers, etc.

When the task was finished, each card was sorted so accurately that the task of arranging into street classifications was but a matter of minutes.

Board Defers Action on Use Of Rugg Texts

'Accepts' Report of Committee But Doesn't Adopt It.

Although the social science textbook committee reported yesterday it had found no alleged "subversive" statements in a re-examination of 14 textbooks by Dr. Harold Rugg and Louise Krueger, the State Board of Education deferred action on whether the texts shall be continued in use in state schools until each member of the board has had an opportunity to study the committee report thoroughly.

The social science committee has examined, with a critical eye for "subversive" statements, the 14 books of the Rugg social science series made available for use in the public schools of Georgia and has found nothing which, in the judgment of the committee, tends to undermine our form of government or our way of life and in the absence of any specific charges against these books, made in writing by any individual or organization, the committee has reached the conclusion that the books should not be prohibited on this basis for use in the public schools of our state," the committee report said.

The board "accepted" the report of the committee, but did not adopt it. A. L. Henson appeared before the board in behalf of the American Legion to protest its adoption.

He declared that "if the board accedes to the Rugg ideas, it ought to advise the people that it is doing so with full knowledge, that it approves Communism as a mode of living."

In submitting its report, the committee said "the conclusion is in accord with other prominent Georgians, including many educators who assisted the committee in the task of making an examination of the books in question."

The members of the committee were B. M. Grier, of Athens, chairman; W. W. Siancil, of Dalton; Major M. C. Wiley, of Carrollton; E. V. Whelchel, of the WPA adult education division, and Warren Jackson, of North Fulton High school.

The members announced that the criticisms were general in their nature and failed to give the title and edition of the book and page or pages therein which would substantiate the charge or charges.

Cobb Obtains Option on Four Airport Sites

County Determined To Have Field 'Second Only to Candler.'

Announcement by County Attorney James V. Carmichael, at Marietta, that Cobb county had obtained options upon four sites and was determined on an airport "second only to Candler field" in the Atlanta area came yesterday as the high point of developments in the local aviation situation.

Attorney Carmichael disclosed that surveys of all four locations had reached a point where they might be submitted to the Civil Aeronautics Authority officials here by the end of the week. He said officials were planning issuance of $100,000 of self-liquidating revenue certificates to supply Cobb county's share of the total cost, indicating a $600,000 development at the normal ratio of WPA to sponsor's funds.

"We also have conferred with WPA authorities here," he added, "and have received satisfactory assurance that the airport's designation as a national defense project would be facilitated. This will make for speed in completing the field."

Cobb County Interests. It was understood Cobb county interests foresaw industrial and well as civil transportation and military activity for the project. There was much interest in last week's revelations, at a meeting of aviation interests here, that Atlanta had lost several millions of dollars of new air industries from lack of airport accommodations.

Action on two Fulton county air fields was advanced yesterday. Soundings were made by county engineers at the proposed small civilian flying field at the county farm, on Gordon road, and a meeting of the county commissioners was called for today to launch the proposed large south Fulton field, four miles south of Fairburn.

Chairman Ed Almand, of the commissioners, expected an immediate start on grading the field, following the meeting. He said an 11-yard scraper and tractor, operated by county forces, would be put to work. WPA officials will not be approached until later, he said. This field is susceptible of expansion to from 1,200 to 1,500 acres. Its present area of 124 acres already has been leased for 10 years at $1 a year.

The smaller civilian field on the county farm, planned in response to appeals of the Atlanta Aero Club and the Fulton county grand jury, will contain at least two and possibly three 2,500-foot runways, each 400 feet wide. It is expected to provide particularly for private flying which may be forced from Candler field by military expansion.

Satisfactory progress was reported upon the northside airport at Camp Gordon. Engineering and design of the navy's estimated $800,000 training installations there were being advanced at the Jacksonville office of L. W. Robert & Company, the Navy's representatives.

Preparations to let contracts were understood to have been made here yesterday by Commander C. H. Cotter, Navy construction officer for this district, who spent the day interviewing Atlanta contractors. It was believed Cotter would go soon to Washington for final decisions, but no confirmation was forthcoming.

Application for $515,000 of WPA in direct construction of the northside airport has cleared the Georgia office and is in the engineering section in Washington. After approval there, it is to be forwarded to the projects control section and then to the Federal Works Agency for the last O. K. before being placed on President Roosevelt's desk.

Case to Oust Ringling Executors Is Postponed

SARASOTA, Fla., Oct. 22.—(UP)—Circuit Judge George W. Whitehurst today continued until December 2 the hearing on the federal government's petition that the executors of the John Ringling estate be ousted. The postponement was to permit one of the executors, John Ringling North, nephew of the late circus king, to testify.

Defense attorneys assured the court none of the estate's assets would be disposed of before the hearing is concluded.

North, president and general manager of the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey circus, today was in Roanoke with the show and planned to accompany it here November 18.

SAYS

Tuxedo Hunt Club To Give Old-Time Halloween Party

• • • MRS. EVAN McCONNELL, chairman of the fun and frolic committee of the Tuxedo Hunt Club, has sent out another of those famous "what, where, time and entertainment" invitations that are the signals for those grand parties that make this organization's clubhouse ring with merriment. The affair will be held next Monday evening at 7 o'clock with Goodloe Yancey, the newly elected president, acting as master of ceremonies.

This time the gathering is to be an old-fashioned Halloween party and the members, as well as the friends they expect to bring, are requested to get out their masks and be ready for lots of fun.

Since the party is to be an old-fashioned one, word has gotten around that sheets and homemade masks will compose most of the costumes, since fancy ones are decidedly too modern!

Fortune telling, hobnobbing for apples, and the relating of ghost stories are a few of the old-fashioned pastimes that will entertain the guests on this occasion.

The party is an annual celebration and never fails to be one long remembered by those in attendance. In fact, they are fast becoming as much of a tradition as those at which the debutantes are presented at the Piedmont Driving Club.

• • • A DISINTIGISHED visitor arriving in the city today is Dr. Lewis J. Moorman, of Oklahoma City, who will be the guest of his son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuller, at their home on Mt. Vernon highway. He will join Mrs. Moorman, who has been the guest here of her daughter, the former Elizabeth Moorman, for several weeks, and has impressed everyone with her great beauty and charm.

Dr. Moorman, you recall, is the author of "The Upland and the Genius," which has created considerable interest in literary and medical circles since its publication a few weeks ago. The volume is a semi-scientific treatise and has rated very flattering reviews by the such reliable authorities as the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune and the magazine Time.

A former president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Moorman is well known among members of the medical profession here, and he and Mrs. Moorman will form the inspiration for a series of delightful informal gatherings planned by their Atlanta friends.

• • • WHEN Mrs. Thomas Eldridge entertains at a birthday party this afternoon for her daughter, Lelia, the affair will duplicate as far as possible the gay party given when Mrs. Eldridge was seven years old. You see, Lelia will be seven years old today, and she will have her first real big party.

When Mrs. Eldridge, the former Lelia Mason, celebrated her seventh birthday, her mother, Mrs. Fred Mason, entertained at the first big party for her young daughter. It was held at Stonehenge, the Mason home on Ponce de Leon avenue, and marked the first in the series of lovely parties held there during Lelia's young ladyhood.

And now there is another young Lelia at Stonehenge and the party today will, perhaps, form the beginning of another brilliant series.

The approaching Halloween season will provide the motif for the colorful decorations to be used throughout the home. Flowers and leaves in autumn shades will be combined in attractive arrangements, and on the dining room table, in lieu of a birthday cake, there will be a large copper kettle filled with persimmons. An amusing feature will be the tiny muskies and black cats crawling up the sides of the kettle. Appropriate favors will be given the young guests as they cut the large chocolate-covered birthday cake.

Mrs. Crown To Speak At K. D. Conclave

Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown, prominent garden authority, will give an illustrated lecture on "Flower Arrangements" for the Kappa Delta state convention, which is to be held at the Biltmore hotel Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Crown is a member of the Kappa Delta sorority, having affiliated with Theta chapter at Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

Mrs. Crown originated the garden school idea, and has been teaching at garden schools all over this section as far south as Florida and as far north as West Virginia for the past 10 years. In 1930 the Peachtree Garden Club awarded Mrs. Crown the achievement medal for the most outstanding work in the state of Georgia in garden club work.

Mrs. Crown will speak on the program Thursday morning. This meeting will commemorate the 43rd anniversary of the founding of Kappa Delta.

Miss Marsh Weds William J. Marsh Jr.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 22—Mrs. Wilson Marsh announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Wilson Marsh, to William J. Marsh Jr., of Athens, formerly of New Milford, Conn., which was solemnized Saturday morning at the First Baptist church by Dr. Arthur Jackson in the presence of the immediate families.

The lovely bride is a graduate of Tubman High school, the Junior College in Augusta and the University of Georgia. For the past several years she has been associated with the Chatham County Public Welfare.

Mr. Marsh is a graduate of Bordertown Military Institute in Bordertown, N. J., and attended Carnegie Institute of Technology and the University of Georgia. He is now associated in business with the Georgia Press in Athens, and after a short wedding trip they will reside at 3201-2 Cherokee avenue.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE MILLS CARSON.

Miss Frances Klein Staten Becomes Bride of Mr. Carson

Gowned in a handsome model of ivory satin, which further enhanced her blonde loveliness, Miss Frances Klein Staten became the bride of George Mills Carson at a brilliant ceremony taking place yesterday in the little chapel of the Glenn Memorial church. Rev. B. E. Whittington, uncle of the bride, performed the marriage at 4:30 o'clock in the presence of an assemblage of friends and relatives of the prominent couple.

Mrs. Stephen W. Banta, organist; Miss Margaret Whittington, violinist, aunt of the bride and Dr. Ben Thebault, vocalist, presented a musical program. Forming the effective decorations for the chapel were garlands of ferns entwined at the altar rail, in front of which were placed urns containing Easter lilies. Flanking the flowers were silver candelabra holding burning white tapers.

The ushers were Douglas Avera, of LaGrange; Tom Lindsey, and Thomas Goddard, both of Griffin, cousins of the groom. Frank Lindsey, of Fayetteville, was best man for his cousin.

Miss Gloria Watson was maid of honor for her cousin. She wore a gown of aqua moire taffeta fashioned along princess lines. Complementing her costume was an aqua maline hat made with a velvet flower crown. She carried a bouquet of Briarcliff roses.

Mrs. C. W. Staten, the bride's sister, who acted as matron of honor, wore a gown styled like that of Miss Watson's and her flowers were Briarcliff roses. The junior bridesmaids, Misses Vallie and Frances Staten, nieces of the bride, wore dusty pink moire taffeta dresses styled like the maid of honor's and their flowers were similar.

C. W. Staten gave his sister in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man. The bride's gown of lustrous satin, which was shirred over the shoulders forming a sweetheart neckline, was styled with leg-o-mutton sleeves and a bouffant skirt. Her finger-tip length veil of illusion tulle was caught to her hair with a cap graced with fragrant orange blossoms. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. W. F. Staten chose for her daughter's wedding a model of soldier blue crepe offset by black hat and accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mrs. M. F. Carson, of Griffin, mother of the groom, was stylishly attired in a black velvet dress and black accessories. Clustering her shoulder was a shoulder cluster of gardenias.

After the ceremony the bridal couple left for a trip to the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. The bride donned for traveling a smart costume suit of sol-

Hedy Lamarr, M-G-M actress starred in "Comrade X," claims beautiful hands are an essential part of a woman's beauty. She not only keeps her nails medium long and tinted with a deep rich polish, but uses a good hand lotion daily to assure soft, white hands.

A Soothing, Smoothing Hand Lotion

By Winifred Ware.

Beautiful hands are as much a part of a woman's beauty as a beautiful face. Are you proud of your hands? Are they smooth and lovely with fingers tapering symmetrically to neatly polished and well-cared for nails? Or, when you remove your gloves, sit down to bridge or dinner, do you wish that you might hide hands that are rough and red?

Busy hands find so many things to mar their appearance—water, cold winds, artificial heat, much washing—that considerable care of the hands is necessary particularly in winter. A regular, weekly manicure, skillful care of cuticle, and, of course, no biting of nails are steps to hand beauty; but one of the most important aids is a bottle of good hand lotion, always kept within easy reach. We would like to recommend a hand lotion today. It isn't new, but it is good. It is liquid, rather thickish. And it does not leave a greasy film on the hands.

It has a particularly soothing and pleasing effect and a light delicate fragrance which in itself is pleasant. Each time the hands are wet whether they have been washing dishes, dainty garments, or just shedding their city grime, apply a generous amount of this lotion, rubbing it well into the backs and palms of hands. If you will be consistent in this practice in a very short time you will notice considerable improvement in the texture of the hands. This lotion, designed particularly to offset the drying effect of weather and indoor heat in winter, is equally effective as a lotion for the face. And don't forget to use it on elbows as they will not shame you when you don your evening gown or wear short sleeves.

We believe you will appreciate knowing about the soothing, smoothing lotion that we have in mind for winter care of hands. For the name of it and where it may be bought call Winifred Ware at The Constitution, WA 6565.

MY DAY: A Boy With Curls A Girl Would Envy

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Monday.—It is always exciting to come home from a trip when you have visited your family, because there are so many foolish little things you have to tell. It may seem trivial when the world is in a turmoil, to tell the President of the United States that Anna's baby, Johnnie, has curls that should belong to a girl and that I deeply resent their not being on somebody's head who could enjoy them the rest of her life! Of course, they will have to be cut off and he will spend hours trying to slick his hair straight when he grows older. Nevertheless, the President is interested and I really think it is good for him, for the little things of life are important and one tends to forget them in the stress of great events.

My mother-in-law wanted to hear every detail about the children and announced that she must get on a plane and go to Seattle at once to see Johnnie before his curls are cut off!

The drive up the river yesterday morning was pleasant because the air was delightfully snappy. But as far as having a chance to look at the scenery, that was out of the question. Miss Thompson decided I had to work, and when she makes that decision my nose is kept to the grindstone, so I read letters the whole way to Hyde Park.

Lunch at the big house with my mother-in-law and her guests was delightful. The governor general of Canada and his wife, Princess Alice, and their daughter, Lady May Abel Smith, were all very friendly and attractive. I was sorry to leave in the afternoon in order to catch up with my work and be free today to keep my various engagements. We meant to come down to Washington by train, but I forgot that even on a coldish, autumn Sunday, traffic going to New York City would be very heavy, so we missed the train and took a plane instead.

If the serious things of the world depress you too much, I recommend that you go out and buy a book called "My Mother is a Violent Woman," by Tommy Wadellton. The gentleman may not be as young as his name or his style indicates, but he certainly has the gift of making a family group seem alive. He describes his character in a delightful way, always with the humorous side to the fore. I feel as though I knew "The Violent Woman" and, knowing her, no one could help liking her.

Peril of a Boys' School When The Fresh Fruit Diet Was Sub-Normal

By Dr. William Brady.

Today it is the general custom among well informed people to feed every infant (whether breast-fed, bottle-fed or both) an adequate daily ration of any fresh fruit or vegetable juice, mixed in water or straight if the child so prefers it—fresh strawberry, raspberry, tomato, peach, apple, cherry, pear, orange, lemon, lime, grapefruit, turnip, cabbage potato juice, freshly expressed from the raw fruit or vegetable and strained through muslin for the infant less than a few months old. Or factory canned tomato juice—home canned tomato or tomato juice retains less vitamin C than does that canned by the vacuum process used by commercial canners. How much such juice is necessary to prevent scurvy? Say an average of an ounce or two daily. At the beginning of course only a half teaspoonful or so is enough for the infant a month old. . . . the daily quantity should be increased, say doubled, month by month or more frequently as the infant grows older. A fair health promoting daily ration for a child a few years of age is four to eight ounces (one-half glassful to a glassful), and the mature adult requires rather less than the growing child.

Before outspoken scurvy occurs, say in the case of an invalid restricted to a prescribed diet or a misguided individual who follows whims or fallacies or obsessions in choosing his or her diet, or one who severely limits his or her diet in an effort to reduce in a hurry, these symptoms may be the warning that the intake of vitamin C is too low for safety. Undue listlessness, lack of energy, pallor, muddy complexion, fleeting pains in joints and limbs, especially pain or soreness in the legs mistaken for "rheumatism." Indeed many cases of so-called "rheumatism" in infants and children, and not a few in adults, are probably actually C-avitaminosis.

For years I have urged the superiority of fresh fruit juice beverages over the concoctions which are so constantly offered to young people today. Vitamin C is one reason. That this may make a considerable difference in the nutrition and health of young people is evidenced by the experience of Professor Hopkins, noted British nutrition authority, in a large prep school. Conduct of the boys in the school became unsatisfactory late in the winter; standard work and play fell below normal, and the boys became apathetic and listless. At last a nutrition investigator found that the diet, although the school was for well-to-do boys, included nothing in the way of uncooked foods and practically no greens. A neighborhood fruitshop which the boys had formerly patronized had been closed for some time, so their spending money went for candy, sweets, soft drinks. When the school authorities added a liberal amount of fresh fruit to the table fare the trouble disappeared. Clearly the whole school had suffered from mild or incipient scurvy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Irish Moss Tea.

Interested in your article on the value of Irish Moss (Chondrus, Carrageen) and the recipe you gave for Irish Moss Blanc-Mange or New England Sea-Moss Fudging. Would Irish Moss have the same effect if taken steeped in a tea? My father used to drink such a tea for bronchial cough and it seemed to give him much relief.

(Mrs. H. E. A.)

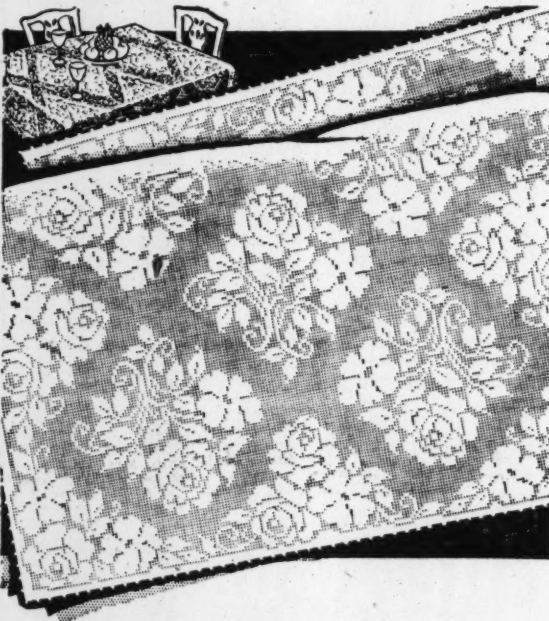

Answer.—Yes, let the moss stand in cold water for 10 minutes before heating, when making the tea. It is both nutritive and demulcent and often helps to relieve bronchial irritation. No dose need be specified—just drink the tea freely or eat the Irish Moss straight or made into pudding.

Entertain By Reading The Stars

How to make that certain man sit up and take notice? Work the ancient lure of fortune-telling! No man can resist having his future read, especially when you play crystal-gazer. There's a fascination about it, even if your crystal's only an old fish-bowl and you're just pretending to see the symbols.

"A star! You're the luckiest of men," you tell him. "For your ambitions of fame and fortune will be realized. And here's a flower. Wedding bells will ring for you. But this leaf means a mysterious visitor—a rival!"

On you go using real crystal gazing symbols and a little imagination to weave a fascinating story. "A letter means important news; a rainbow, strange adventure in a foreign land."

Easy, you see, to play the omniscient fortune-teller. And there are lots of other fascinating ways to do it. Next time the crowd drops in, ask each one the date of his birth, then look up his particular horoscope in your fortune-telling book.

"Born between November 21 and December 20?" you say. "You'll always have plenty of money, make your judgments quickly and accurately. But beware of a tendency toward brutal frankness."

It's Time For a Bean Supper!

By Sally Saver.

There is something about the look of things outside, the feel of the air, the bright leaves, the soft haze over the hills, the invigorating chilliness that steals into the nights and mornings—something about the very atmosphere that suggests your getting out a plump bean pot with perhaps a nest of little bean pots to match and baking a glorious bean supper. There is no better time to fill them up and no time when baked beans, symbol of heartiness, could possibly taste better. And the smell of baked beans filling the kitchen and invading the rest of the house is enough to rejuvenate the whole family at the end of day.

For a quick meal of baked beans, take two medium-sized cans baked beans and mix with 1-4 cup brown sugar, 5 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 5 tablespoons catsup and heat thoroughly in top of double boiler. Place in greased baking dish or individual bean pots and place under a low flame for a few minutes to brown on top. And if you like, a bacon strip laid across the top is wonderfully tasty. For baked beans the old-fashioned way in the big bean pot:

Soak dried white beans overnight to speed up baking. They may be boiled almost tender before being baked, but overnight soaking is best. Drain, add a pinch of water and parboil a very few minutes. Season to taste. These proportions may be used as a pattern and varied as desired.

For 2 cups uncooked beans use: 1-2 pound salt pork. 2 to 3 tablespoons dark molasses. 1 to 2 tablespoons brown sugar. 1 tablespoon dry mustard. 1 to 2 teaspoons salt. 3 to 4 tablespoons catsup. An onion chopped fine is good.

but optional. Blend the seasonings well into the beans. Cut the salt pork in pieces (reserving a slice for the top) and add as the pot is being filled. Add enough water to keep moist, but not enough to "swim" the beans, since they have been soaked or precooked. Bake slowly and evenly four to six hours or until thoroughly tender, adding a little water from time to time if necessary.

To serve with your beans, try a simple lettuce salad, a bowl of snappy pickles in a variety of shapes and degrees of spiciness, and lots of hot coffee. Whole wheat muffins, or in very traditional manner, brown bread finish off a splendid meal.

Some time if you are looking for an unusual dish with a tang to it, try serving baked beans simmered in a sour cream sauce. This is really a delicacy in the form of a light creamy rabbit, with tender meaty beans and a tart touch from the sour cream sauce. It's fine served over toast for light supper snacks. And in case you're short on sour cream, you can sour fresh cream by adding slowly 2 1-2 tablespoons white vinegar to a cup of sweet cream, stirring constantly.

RABBIT SAUCE. Heat in a saucepan: 3-4 cup sour cream Add 1 medium can baked beans (18 ounces).

Cook three minutes and then serve on crisp toast.

Party Series Are Concluded For Miss Coit and Mr. Jones

Miss Laura Coit and her fiancé, Boisfeuillet Jones, whose marriage will be a social event of this evening, were honored last evening at the last in the series of parties given in their honor.

Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Pittman, brother and sister of Mr. Jones, who entertained at their home on Howell Mill road after the wedding rehearsal at the Druid Hills Presbyterian church.

The table in the dining room was covered with a handsome damask cloth and was centered with a silver epergne filled with white dahlias and white chrysanthemums. Maidens' train and outlined the table to achieve a color motif of green and white. Throughout the home quantities of vari-colored flowers were used as the artistic decorations. Mrs. John A. Crawford, of Toccoa, aunt of the hostess, assisted in entertaining.

Present were members of the wedding party and the following out-of-town guests who arrived yesterday for the wedding: Mrs. Robert T. Coit, of Richmond, Va., mother of the bride-elect; Robert T. Coit, of Baltimore, Md., brother of the bride-elect; Miss Helen Harris, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Rev. and Mrs. Lynn Temple Jones, of Lexington, Va.; and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cotten Oates Jr., of Sweetwater, Tenn., brothers and sisters of the bride-elect; Martin McGee, of Macon; Miss Mary Lillian Fairly, of Asheville, N. C.; Miss Sydney McWhorter and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton McWhorter, of Lexington, Va.; Miss Jane Larus Reed, of Richmond, Va.; Walt Davis, of Dalton; Miss Eleanor Belk, of Columbus; Dr. and Mrs. John Knox Coit, of Montreat, N. C.; Miss Johnnie Coit, of Greensboro, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Dillard Lasseter, of Washington, D. C., and Mr. and Mrs. John Crawford, of Toccoa.

Miss Agnew Weds George E. Smith At Church Rites

The West End Baptist church formed the setting for the marriage of Miss Evelyn Henry Agnew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Agnew, of Atlanta and Macon, to George Edwin Smith, which was solemnized at 8 o'clock Friday evening with Dr. M. A. Cooper, pastor, officiating.

Miss Sara Milner, organist, and Mrs. Joe Harward, soloist, presented a program of music.

Palms and woodwardia fern and large white chrysanthemums were arranged effectively in urns at intervals on the altar. Candelabra holding burning white tapers illuminated the bride and groom.

Groomsmen and ushers were: Charles Agnew, brother of the bride; Kenneth Smith and Theodore Smith, cousins of the groom, and C. L. Mundy, Lee Stovall Jr. was best man.

The matron of honor was Mrs. C. L. Mundy. The bride was trimmed in wine velvet bows featuring a square neck and puffed sleeves, with a bouffant skirt, fashioned her gown. She carried a bouquet of bronze chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids were: Miss Caroline Agnew, sister of the bride; Miss Eloise Hunt, of Cedartown, cousin of the bride, and the junior bridesmaid was Miss Frances Agnew, another sister of the bride. Their gowns were identical to that of the matron of honor and they carried bouquets of the same flowers.

The bride entered with her father who gave her in marriage. She wore a wedding dress of white Duchess satin, the fitted bodice featuring leg-of-mutton sleeves pointed over the hand, and a sweetheart neckline. The widely flared skirt ended in a long train. Her tulle veil was caught to her head by a coronet of orange blossoms. Her flowers were a cascade bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with purple orchids.

The bride's mother was becomingly gowned in black lace, with which she wore a spray of red roses. Mrs. Smith, mother of the groom, wore a gown of wine crepe trimmed in velvet, and her flowers were gardenias.

Immediately following the marriage service at the church, Mrs. S. O. Smith entertained for the couple at a reception at her home on Rose circle. Receiving the guests with the hostess were members of the bridal party and the parents of the bride.

The bride's table, overlaid with a cloth of real lace, was centered with an embossed wedding cake banked with garlands of pompon chrysanthemums and fern.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs.

Miss Sheep to Wed Captain Voegtley

An announcement of important social interest in army circles is that made today by Brigadier General William L. Sheep, Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Mrs. Sheep, of Fort Monmouth, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Carroll Hinton Sheep, to Captain John Henry Voegtley, Medical Corps, U. S. A., now stationed at Fort Devens, Mass.

The marriage will be an event of January and will be an important event of interest in army circles. Further details and plans will be announced later.

Miss Sheep is a graduate of Ward-Belmont Junior College in Nashville, Tenn., and for several years studied interior decoration under Miss Genevieve Hendricks, interior decorator of Washington, District of Columbia.

Captain Voegtley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick Voegtley, of Pittsburgh, Pa. He is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, the Army Medical School in Washington, D. C., and the Army Medical Field Service School in Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Travis whose marriage was a recent event, were honor guests at a reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Hemperley at their home on Ben Hill recently.

Mesdames Jack and Charles Steward assisted the hostess in entertaining. The reception rooms were beautifully decorated in fall flowers. Guests included relatives and close friends of the honor guest.

Ed Rainey, Mrs. Alton Leach, Misses Wilma and Doris Ferrell, and Mrs. Lee Stovall Jr., who kept the bride's book.

The couple left for their wedding trip through the mountains of Tennessee, and upon their return they will reside at 947 Rose circle.

The bride chose for her traveling an ensemble of wine crepe trimmed in seed pearls and accessories of black. Her flowers were a spray of orchids.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the ceremony were: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Taylor, Miss Mae Agnew, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. McCarthy, Miss Rita McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harden, and Mrs. Lula S. Abbott, great-aunt of the bride, all from Rome; Mrs. E. W. Cooper, of Miami; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hunt, Miss Eloise Hunt, Miss Marjorie Jo Hunt, and Mrs. George W. Epps, great-aunt of the bride, all from Cedartown, and Miss Magdalene Glenn, of Athens.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES B. SHELTON JR.

Miss Elizabeth Colley Weds Charles Bascom Shelton Jr.

Miss Elizabeth Colley, beautiful young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edmonds Colley, became the bride of Charles Bascom Shelton Jr., at a fashionable ceremony taking place last evening at St. Luke's Episcopal church. Rev. John Moore Walker officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a distinguished gathering of friends and relatives of the prominent couple. Hugh Hodgson presented a program of organ music.

Luxuriant woodwardia ferns, smilax and stately palms formed the background for the altar decorations. Interspersed with the greenery were candelabra holding gleaming white tapers and altar vases filled with white chrysanthemums. Festoons of asparagus ferns, caught at intervals with white chrysanthemums, draped the chancel rail. Marking the pews down the center aisle were clusters of white chrysanthemums and gladioli caught with bows of white satin ribbon.

First to enter were the ushers, including Judge Luther Z. Rosser, uncle of the groom; Harold T. Patterson, Fritz Orr, Ralph Pharr, Langdon C. Quinn, W. E. Letts, Dr. William M. Dunn and Alva C. Chapman, of Columbus. Acting as groomsmen were William Shelton, brother of the groom; Joe Cralle, of New Orleans, La.; Leroy Shelton, of Jacksonville, Fla.; E. G. Cole Jr., of Newnan; Strother Fleming Jr., of Ellis, Ga.; Charlie Shropshire and William Daniel.

Miss Margaret Craighill, of Washington, D. C., was the maid of honor and wore a gown of periwinkle blue satin with Victorian style shirred bodice and short shirred sleeves. The full, layered net skirt was posed over matching satin. Her flowers were a slender cascade bouquet of Queen Mary roses tied with satin ribbon to match the dress.

The bridesmaids included Misses Emily Mobley, Selma Wight, Lillian Klein, Frances Bird, of Valdosta; Martha Jean Brooke, of Charlotte, N. C.; Letitia Seibels, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. E. G. Cole Jr., of Newnan; cousin of the groom; and Mrs. Fred Eve. Their gowns and flowers were identical to those of the maid of honor.

Bride Enters. The radiantly lovely bride entered with her father, John Edmonds Colley, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Tom Shelton, who acted as best man.

The bride's exquisite blond beauty was further accentuated by her handsome gown of ivory slipper satin, fashioned along Victorian lines, with the bodice featuring sweetheart neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves that ended in a deep point over the hand. The full skirt fell into graceful folds to form a long train. Her veil was caught to her hair by a choir boy cap of beautiful rose point lace, the lace having been worn by the groom's mother, Mrs. Charles Shelton Sr., on her wedding dress. Close to illusion tulle fell from the cap and extended beyond the train of the gown, with a face veil caught to the front of the cap. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white hybrid cattail orchids and lilies of the valley, with a shirred cascade of valley lilies.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at an informal reception at their home on Club drive for the members of the wedding party, families and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Colley, the bride's mother, chose for the occasion an American original model of coral sand lame, the bodice being trimmed in tiny scallops and the skirt featuring knife pleats. Her flowers were a shoulder cluster of purple orchids. Mrs. Shelton, the groom's mother, wore a gown of blue chiffon made on flowing lines and trimmed with crystal beads and completed by a shoulder spray of pink orchids.

Handsome Costumes Worn. Mrs. M. L. Hollowell, maternal grandmother of the bride, was gowned in a model of imported rose-gray lace with which she wore a dark-shaded orchid. Mrs. Besse E. Smith, of Bryn Athyn, Pa., the bride's paternal grandmother, was attired in a gown of blue crepe completed by a light-shaded orchid.

Miss Mary McGaughey and Mrs. Charles Freeman Jr., kept the bride's book.

The guests were received before a background of palms and artistic arrangements of white chrysanthemums, similar flowers being used for the decorations throughout the home. The bride's table in the dining room was overlaid with a lace cloth and centered by a large silver tureen filled with white roses, snapdragons and swainsons. The tiered bride's cake was embedded in a mound of asparagus fern and small white flowers, a similar arrangement encircling the punch bowls.

Later in the evening the young couple left for their wedding trip, the bride traveling in a gray dress with collar and cuffs of pale French pink, with a matching duvetyne coat trimmed with a luxuriant collar of natural blue fox. Her hat and bag were of matching duvetyne and her other accessories were black. A shoulder cluster of white orchids completed the ensemble.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Shelton will go to Jacksonville, Fla., where they will reside in the Peacock apartments, 2916 St. John's avenue, and where they will be popular additions to that city's younger married contingent.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Besse E. Smith, of Bryn Athyn, Pa., paternal grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Alva H. Chapman, of Columbus; Miss Caroline Reid, Henry Nicholson, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Pendleton, of Macon; Lottie Taylor, of Wilmington, N. C.; Mrs. Frank Bird and Tom Shelton, brother of the groom, of Valdosta, and the out-of-town members of the wedding party.

Library Group Is Entertained.

Mrs. H. B. Nelson entertained the Northside Library Association recently at her home on Piedmont road.

Sewing for the Needle Work Guild with Mrs. Clifton Perkins as chairman, always a worthy feature of the meetings, consumed a portion of the forenoon, after which an alfresco luncheon was served. The business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Edgar Watkins Sr., the president, who reported that work on the new library building at Buckhead would begin at a very early date.

A musical program followed sponsored by Mrs. J. T. Calloway, featuring Mrs. Henry Ware, a noted pianist. Forty-five members were present and co-hostesses were Mesdames Ester Birdsong, Fred Avery, Hugh Bearden, Hubert Ravaziver, P. S. Brownlee, O. H. Wright, Fred Rann, H. C. Frass and W. C. Goodpasture.

Julia Jackson Chapter.

Julia Jackson Chapter of C. of C. met recently at the home of Mrs. W. E. Richardson.

New officers elected were Jacqueline deLoach, president; Nina Courtenay, vice president; James Maden, secretary; John Maden, treasurer, and Barbara Allen, flagbearer and social chairman.

New members are Donnie Browne and Phil Coleman.

Fields—Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Sparks, of Miami, Fla., announce the marriage of their daughter, Ruth Sparks Fields, to Ray Miller, of Huntsville, Ala., which took place on October 11. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Y. A. Oliver, pastor of the Ben Hill Methodist church, at the parsonage.

The lovely bride wore a soldier blue dress with black accessories and her flowers were tallies roses. The couple will make their home in Fayetteville, Tenn.

Clubwomen To Motor Friday To Tallulah Falls School

Tallulah Falls school will become a Mecca Friday for Atlanta clubwomen, who will go in a motorcade for a spend-the-day party, with midday lunch served by the girls of Tallulah Falls school. The motorcade will be headed by a car driven by Mrs. Roy C. Rean, Tallulah Falls chairman for the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs. Mrs. Bean, who arranged the visit to Tallulah Falls school, and Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, president of the Atlanta Federation, invite all clubwomen and their friends to attend. Mrs. W. Beverly Johnson is co-chairman of Atlanta Federation Tallulah committee.

At the school the Atlanta women will be met by Mrs. Albert Hill, president of the board of trustees of the school; Mrs. Ralph Butler, Georgia Federation president, and Mrs. Z. I. Fitzpatrick, resident director at Tallulah. Mrs. Chester Martin, president of the Fifth District Federation, has been invited and will join the motorcade.

Reservations already have been made for more than 40, and the interest manifested indicates that a much larger number will go. Automobiles will meet near the intersection of Piedmont avenue and Cheshire Bridge road, N. E., forming in line on Cheshire Bridge road, and proceeding out the Buford highway at 7 o'clock Friday morning. Anyone who will drive or who wishes transportation should call Mrs. Roy C. Rean, Raymond 7015, or Mrs. Wolfe, Vernon 2606, or Vernon 4465.

Club presidents, Tallulah Falls chairmen and members who have never had the pleasure of visiting Tallulah, are particularly asked to take advantage of the opportunity to go in the motorcade. Mrs. Fitzpatrick reports that October is the most ideal time at Tallulah and that every Atlanta clubwoman should see the Atlanta Federation building at Tallulah and meet the girls and boys who gain opportunity for a fuller life because of the school.

Miss Broome Weds Hugh M. Milner

Of interest throughout the state is the marriage of Miss Nellie Kate Broome, daughter of Mrs. L. F. Broome and the late Mr. Broome, to Hugh Morgan Milner, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Milner Sr., of Barnesville, which took place October 19 at 8 o'clock at the Unitarian Universalist church.

Dr. Roger A. Bosworth performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the families and friends. The nuptial music was by J. T. Pittman, organist, and Miss Elizabeth Waterhouse, soloist.

The ceremony was performed before an altar of stately palms, two cathedral candelabra holding lighted tapers, and a large basket filled with white chrysanthemums and gladioli.

Mrs. E. M. Presley was the bride's matron of honor. Her gown was a street-length model of Indian earth moss crepe, featuring a high neckline, accessories of black. With this she wore a shoulder spray of yellow roses.

Acting as ushers were Floyd W. Broome and Harry Chaffin.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, J. Roy Chapman, and Rayford E. Griggs attended the bridegroom as best man. The bride wore a modish street-length costume in winter wheat moss crepe, made with a waist-length embroidered jacket.

Her dress featured a high neckline and shirring at the shoulders. Her hat was of black French felt with fine mesh veiling. Her accessories were black. She wore a shoulder cluster of talisman roses showered with valley lilies.

Mrs. Broome, mother of the bride, wore a black crepe dress with a shoulder spray of gardenias. Mrs. J. Roy Chapman, sister of the bride, wore a black velvet dress with cream lace collar and cuffs. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a month trip through south Georgia and Florida. Mrs. Milner wore for traveling a soldier-blue wool suit with a cross-fox collar. Her blouse was of white satin made with a high neck and small collar. Her accessories were of black.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Chaffin, Miss Evelyn Chaffin, Harry Chaffin, of Waycross; Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Broome, of Nahant; Miss Ruth Milner, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Milner Jr., of Barnesville; Earl Milner, of Columbia, and Henry A. Housch, of Madison.

Stipe-Paschal Wedding Plans

At a brilliant high-noon ceremony taking place on November 1 Miss Edna Lillian Stipe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Stipe, of Decatur, will become the bride of William Dennis Paschal Jr. The Decatur Methodist church will form the setting for the wedding. The Rev. J. W. O. McKibben will read the service and a program of organ music will be presented by Miss Frances Burgess.

The bride-elect will be given in marriage by her father and she has chosen as her matron of honor and only attendant her sister, Mrs. Fortson Jenkins, of Decatur.

William Dennis Paschal will be best man for his son and the ushers will include John Wesley Stipe Jr. and Carraker Paschal, brothers of the engaged pair.

An elaborate series of parties will be given in honor of Miss Stipe and Mr. Paschal. On Thursday Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Falls will entertain at a tea-dance at the Henry Grady hotel in the Spanish room.

Two parties will honor the young couple on Saturday. The bride-elect will be central figure in the afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock at a reception to be given by Mrs. Banks DuPre, of Marietta, at her home on Whitlock avenue. That evening Miss Stipe will share honors with her fiancé at a party to be given by Miss Jane Blair at her home on Amsterdam avenue.

Mrs. G. N. Hood is planning a party for the couple on Monday evening at her home, 1148 Oxford road. On October 31, Mrs. Collins Flynt will entertain at the home of her mother, Mrs. E. E. Treadwell, on East Davis street in Decatur for the bride-elect, this affair to be a luncheon. Miss Mary Alice Worley is planning a luncheon for Miss Stipe, but no date has been set.

Among the many parties which will compliment the couple following their marriage and wedding trip is the reception to be given by Mrs. John Wesley Stipe, mother of the bride-elect, and the latter's sister, Miss Margaret Stipe. This party will be held on Sunday, November 10, other details to be announced.

Splendid Cough Remedy Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get quick and satisfying relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never be without it in your home, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed. Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. This is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable gusiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really splendid medicine and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it is amazing. You can feel it take hold in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Beat Champ, Lost

The man whose setter defeated a national champion but finished second in the championship was a visitor yesterday.

M. G. Dudley, of Greenville, S. C., no longer is avoiding the pointer people. He advanced into the Southern League headquarters of Major Trammell, Scott without knocking. And he made a point of brushing the long hairs off his coat on the Major's desk.

Mr. Dudley owns the famous Hillbright Susannah.

And it was at Pearson, Manitoba, that Susannah defeated national champion Lester's Enjoy Wahoo in the old Dominion championship, but finished as runner-up to Farmwood Traveler, owned by Fleischman, the yeast man, of New York.

I will not repeat how much Mr. Dudley paid for Hillbright Susannah, whom he purchased from Bob Sealy, of Cottonwood, Ala., and Panama City, Fla., because the fact that it was let out once cost Mr. Dudley a new automobile and a fur coat, he revealed yesterday.

Regardless of the price, however, Mr. Dudley got the setter, whose dam he owned, and it appears that he has a national champion in the making.

Many things can happen to a bird dog and a bird dog's chances in winning important stakes, but Hillbright Susannah could go a long way if the breaks were kind.

Old-timers at Pearson, Manitoba, told M. G. Dudley they have never seen a finer race run by a setter in the old Dominion trial. That's saying a lot.

Then, too, bird dogs point on prairie chickens in Canada, and they are wilder, much harder to handle than the American quail. Next month Susannah will be entered in the Texas open championship at Corsicana. She'll make the major league circuit.

And before the year's over many a short-hair may be singing, dog language, the words of the famous song—"Oh, Susannah, won't you wait for me?"

Irony Major Scott, who had rather forget that once he had a preference for setters, was chiding Mr. Dudley a bit yesterday.

He reminded him that for years on end he and Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, had run "Your mongrel setters. We'd almost kill horses trying to place them for you.

SUSANNAH POINTING PRAIRIE CHICKEN

"And then you came along in a magnanimous sort of way and said you had a pointer for us to run in member stakes. You wouldn't let us run the little setter (Susannah) because she was too good."

"Then we asked you about the pointer and you tell us that in talking to your trainer, Earl Crangle, you decide the pointer is too good for us. So you refuse to buy."

"Here is the point. What pointer beat you in the Dominion championship? Yep, it was Farmwood Traveler, the pointer that was too good for us to run."

Major Scott and Ray Hoagland won't let Mr. Dudley forget that this season—regardless of how well Susannah performs.

He had a chance to buy the pointer but refused because of a preference for all-setter kennels. And then, after Susannah had licked the national champion, the pointer he didn't buy won the championship.

That's something.

It's History Georgia and Columbia have started a fine relationship in football. Georgia outplayed Columbia but lost the opening game, 19 to 13. The Bulldogs had no kick coming, made none.

Georgia muffed its opportunities to win the game. Hence it is not the ultimate in sportsmanship (and Georgia is in no way involved) to question the legality of the play which defeated the Bulldogs in the final period.

The score of the Georgia-Columbia game, as of Saturday, was 19-13. As of today, it is 19-13. It will remain so forever.

Georgia made a tremendous hit with New York writers and fans last Saturday and it would be bad, indeed, for the Bulldogs now to be placed in an unfavorable position, a position of being lousy losers.

Happily, there has been no complaint from the University. The '40 game is just so much history.

Anent Wally J. G. Thomas, father of Jack Thomas, former Duke athlete, pens a "note to the sports editor." It is self-explanatory—

"Dear Mr. Troy: 'Undoubtedly, a winning football team is a source of pride and joy to the college it may represent, from president to water boy; but victory, however sweet, is not the all-important consideration in appraising the character and qualifications of a football or baseball coach and his value to the institution with which he is connected. Of primary importance—and what counts most of all—is the influence exerted upon the lives of the boys by the coach, in his own person, through an example on his part of clean living, clear thinking, high principle and good sportsmanship.'

"Measured by these standards, Wallace Butts, football coach at Georgia, would be an ornament to the athletic department of any school—an asset too valuable to permit the intrusion of other and minor considerations, even if his boys never won a game. But they will win plenty—Wallace's ability as a leader is a guarantee of that.

"The many boys whom he has coached in the days gone by remember Wallace Butts with respect and affection, wherever they may go, and are deeply interested in his progress. They remember the sense of duty, obligation and responsibility they acquired through the force of his example. 'One of Butts' former G. M. C. 'boys' telephoned the writer Sunday night asking about Wallace—and 'Georgia.'"

"Yours very truly," J. G. THOMAS,

"118 Michigan Ave., Decatur, Ga."

These sentiments are shared by countless followers of football in Georgia, no doubt. And, while Butts will continue to build character, he also will toss in a few victories for good measure as time goes along. And you may lay to that.

Goree, Pair Unhurt After Scrimmage; Dudish Shines at Athens

2 Backs Boost Tech's Chances In Auburn Tilt

Varsity Sharpens Running, Passing Attack; Looks Good Doing It.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.
Roy Goree and Bobby Pair gave injured knees their first test yesterday as Tech scrimmaged on offense and both came through in fine shape.

All of which is cheering news to the Yellow Jackets who face Auburn's Tigers Saturday afternoon on Grant field.

Goree played about five minutes against Notre Dame but that is all of the action he has seen this season. Pair has yet to get into a game. Both were considered two of the most valuable men in the Jacket backfield at the start of the season and should they come through today's scrimmage okay, Tech's chances of defeating the Tigers will be greatly improved.

However, today's scrimmage will be much tougher than yesterday's. A freshman line and two backs-up, clad in blocking pads, was on defense all afternoon against the varsity who sharpened up their running and passing attack and looked pretty good doing so.

The line was opening big holes in the freshman defense and the backs were blocking and faking well.

The Jackets will get a look at Auburn's plays in today's drill. It is likely the varsity will be on defense most of the afternoon.

Two additional injuries kept yesterday's session from being a howling success. Hal Lamb, reserve guard, suffered a knee in-

FLASHY LITTLE BULLDOG—Heyward Allen, one of the smallest men on the Georgia football squad, is just about the most accurate passer the Bulldogs boast, in addition to being a shifty runner. One of the few holdovers from last year's squad, Allen has had to battle Frank Sinkwich for the tailback post, and he has done a pretty good job of it according to Georgia coaches and fans.

Andy Improves And May Play More in Future

Paschner and Keuper Look Good in Drill for Cats.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 22.—Handy Andy Dudish believes in making hay while the sun shines.

As Lamar Davis took treatment for a minor bruise suffered in the Columbia game Saturday, Dudish emerged from a two-hour workout on offense and defense as the most improved wingback on Georgia's squad—a factor that may result in his seeing more than his share of the service Friday night against the University of Kentucky.

Defensively, Andy answers second to no one, but he hasn't the natural speed of Davis and Brook Blanton and therefore is not as effective on offense.

DEFENSE PROBLEM.

But Georgia's defense has been the biggest problem in the last two games and the way Dudish was pulling passes out of the air this afternoon and coming up to make bone-crushing tackles when ball carriers slipped through the line, may convince Coach Wallace Butts that he is the man to ease his worries.

Dudish wasn't the only outstanding man during the workout, which will be the last of a strenuous nature before the game with the Wildcats.

George Paschner continued his brilliant work at left end and Ken Keuper, apparently completely recovered from a charley horse, was running with plenty of speed and power all day long.

AGAIN TODAY.

Coach Butts ordered another day-time drill for tomorrow, with the final practice session Thursday, scheduled to be under the lights.

The Kentucky game will be the first night game ever played in Athens and officials are looking for a fairly large crowd. Ticket sales have picked up during the past few days.

While no official announcement has been made, it is fairly certain that Georgia will open the Kentucky game with only a couple of new faces in its lineup, if any at all.

LINE SHIFTS.

There is a possibility that Lee McKinney will take over Tommy Green's left tackle post and Winfred Goodman may get the call at left guard in place of C. B. Guest.

Paschner and Captain James Skipworth will be at the ends, Gene Ellens at right tackle, Will Burt right guard, Tommy Witt at center, Bobby Nowell blocking back, Heyward Allen tailback, Davis wingback and Keuper fullback.

The game Friday is scheduled to begin at 8:15 o'clock (eastern standard time).

Florida To Test Wolverine's Line

Coaches Art P. Graves and A. J. Lockhart tutored their men against the intricate Florida A. & M. attack in practice Tuesday afternoon at Morris Brown College. They are carefully laying plans to stop the hard-running game employed by Coach Bill Bell, of the Florida institution, who they will meet at Ponce de Leon park Saturday afternoon in a climax to Purple and Black Day which climaxes the Atlanta school's home-coming.

It is quite evident that this game will be the acid test for the Wolverines, who have won three straight contests without a single score being made on them. So far their defense has been impregnable with a forward wall that has been on the alert. It is possible that the game with Florida will give the forward wall of the Wolverines the strongest offense to hold in check than they have faced this fall.

November 22—Alabama.
November 29—Tennessee, at Knoxville.

Ramblin' Wrecks

(ANTIQUATED CARS TO CONTEST AT TECH)

Will Ramble Friday

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

If the dead past has buried its dead it will just have to dig them up again.

This is the week that Atlanta junk men are busier than a toy salesman on Christmas Eve. It is all because next Friday night at 7 o'clock at Grant Field the "Ramblin' Wrecks" will ramble again.

The Yellow Jacket Club, the school spirit organization at Georgia Tech, has issued its yearly plaintive warning that jallopies of ancient vintage, jallopies that will put Jack Benny's "Maxwell" to shame, will circle the running track at Grant Field in a contest to find the most antiquated "hossless carriage" in all Atlanta.

The annual affair is a colorful part of a pregame pep meeting to which the public is admitted free of charge. Tech cheer leaders and the entire student body will be there. In addition to the prewar jallopy parade there will be cheers and songs and music by the Shay" of poetic fame. For that is the only rule of the contest. The "winnah," without external assistance, must make it around three times to win a prize.

The coveted first prize, the "Golden Gaboon"—cuspador to you—was copped last year by the A. T. O. fraternity's "Ramblin' Wreck."

If unable to take away the top prize the expected 25 entrants will still have a chance to cop a prize of lesser value. Silver and bronze cups are second and third-place awards, respectively, and Atlanta merchants are donating many other valuables (?) as prizes to spur the entrants to greater effort in the bent-fender search.

You, too, can see the great auto show in which are shown only autos that shouldn't be shown. The "Ramblin' Wreck" is not dead. Viva la "Ramblin' Wreck."

ROBERTS SIGNS.

Jockey Porter Roberts has signed a contract to ride for the Wheatley stable starting with the opening of the Florida season at Tropical Park December 21.

WHEN REAGAN AND HARMON MEET

Winds of the west, give answer—when Reagan and Harmon meet, Will the Red and Blue be the big who's who in the Land of the Flying Feet?

Will the Blue and Maize spin the winning plays in the lair of the Wolverine?

As the Michigan flyer eats up the turf where the Michigan backs career?

Winds of the west, give answer—Harmon is tried-and-true. Harmon is half a ball team, but Reagan is something too—

Runner, kicker and blocker, passer, tackler and star—Harmon may get the verdict, but never with only par.

Winds of the west, send warning—tell them the storm is near. For the Red and Blue are a wrecking crew that even the valiant fear. The Blue and Maize through the golden haze had better be at its best As the Red and Blue comes thundering through in the meeting of East and West.

THE CLASSIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Something will have to bend, if not to break, when Michigan and Pennsylvania, plus Tom Harmon and Francis Reagan, begin the big joust on Saturday over Michigan turf.

The Pennsylvania team I saw run up 48 points against Princeton is a match for any team I've seen in years. Its forward pass defense was no match for the deadly arm and aim of Dave Allerdice. But in other respects it had about all that a winning team needs—a fast, slashing running attack, superb kicking by Reagan and, above all, a killing ground defense against all running plays.

Even the incomparable Harmon will have his trouble running wild against the Meldelons and others who make up a fast, hard-charging Pennsylvania line. Dave Allerdice is the only passer I've seen who could have delivered so much havoc through the air—22 completions for over 300 yards. With better receiving he should have passed 25 completions for close to 400 yards. He was up to the mark of either O'Brien or Sammy Baugh in the best of their college days.

Reagan and Harmon.

Reagan and Harmon, the two featured stars, are somewhat different types. Harmon weighs 195, Reagan, 190. Both are extremely fast. Harmon is the harder runner—harder to bring down—but no more elusive. A Harmon plus an Evashevski is a terrific combination.

Reagan is much the better kicker—in fact the best I've

Doyal Shifts Joe Kenimer From Right Half To Replace Berman

Smithies Rest As 'B' Squads Hold Interest

Fulton-Hapeville Contest Is Moved Up to Wednesday Night.

By JOHN MARTIN
Shorty Doyal is still "cat-conscious" and is taking it so seriously that last weekend instead of staying here for the Tech-Vanderbilt game, he went wildcat hunting on the Savannah river. His dogs preferred possums to purrs, though, and the Chatham cats are going on living their nine lives in the wilds.

However, upon his return to the autos carrying his party, Doyal jumped a big black tom-cat.

"The big boy was surprisingly tame and came to me," Doyal was explaining yesterday. "I got him in the car three times, but the last time he got away he was sidestepping birches and making a mile-a-minute right down the river bank."

The blame for Doyal's feeling for the feline family may be laid to the good luck Blackout, orphan alley cat and her litter of four, gave him Purples early in the season.

INJURIES START
Blackout lasted only through the Marist game. And up to this time the Purples were in the best physical condition any Boys' High team had ever enjoyed at a corresponding time. Blackout faded back into the freedom of the streets and with her disappearance came the siege of knees and elbows.

Guard Brandenburg went out with a broken wrist shortly after Tackle Carroll ruined a leg. Others came up with ailments and Monday Al Berman, perhaps the No. 1 fullback in Georgia prep circles, joined the appendix army. This was a severe blow, and coming on the eve of the Tech High game, it sent Doyal into the dumps and in search of help.

He pulled the string on Joltin Joe Kenimer and installed the second-string right halfback in Berman's slot. He should do well enough, but it is impossible to replace Berman. Bill Magbee, second-stringer, is a terrific plunger, but lacks the necessary defensive polish.

DOUBLE DUTY.

Doyal also will further school Jake Cox in fullback duties and at the same time work him at guard. Whether Berman's loss had anything to do with it or not, Sidney Scarborough saw fit to give his Smithies a second holiday yesterday. Maybe he calculated they had earned it beating Lanier last week in a tough game.

The Smithies, however, will resume work this afternoon and set their sights on an upset next week at Grant field.

The B teams of these outfits have been hogging the field this week as they prepare for Friday night's "little classic." Allen Shi has worked the B Smithies in the absence of Coach Vaughn. Coach Madden billed a scrimmage for his young Purples today as a preliminary tune-up.

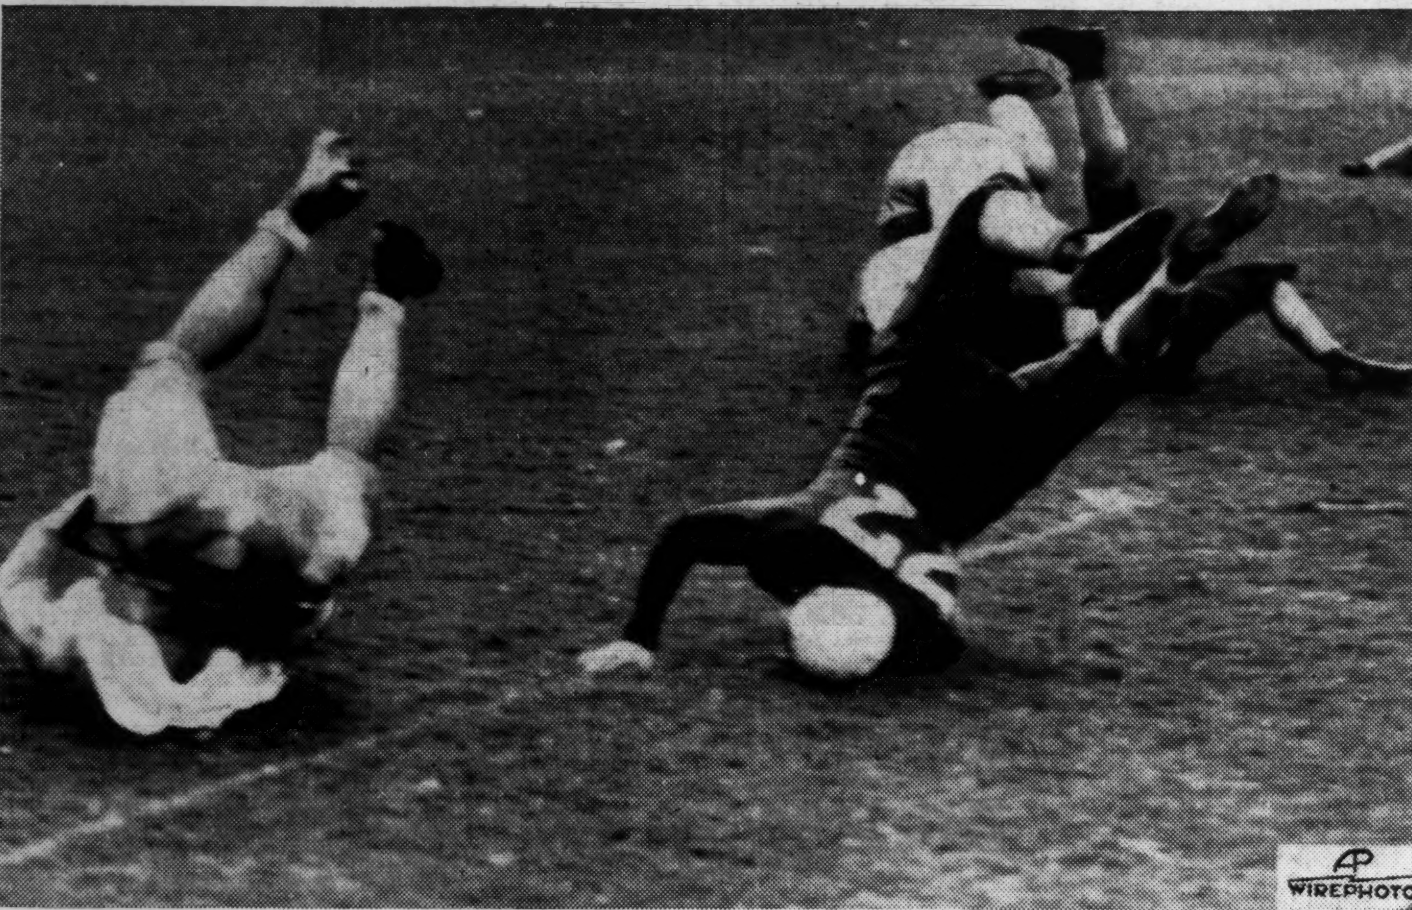

The preppers continued to juggle their playing schedule yesterday, Fulton and Hapeville deciding on Wednesday night for their contest at Russell's East Point field.

Travs May Name Buddy Lewis Pilot

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Press-Scimitar said today that William (Buddy) Lewis, veteran catcher for the Louisville Colonels of the American Association, "may secure the Little Rock Travelers' managerial job for 1941."

"A report out of an AA city said that Lewis is being considered for the pilot job and from reliable information, it is understood the Memphis will be named prior to the December meeting of the minors in Atlanta," the paper stated.

Lewis has been with Louisville two years. The Louisville and Little Rock clubs are both members of the Boston Red Sox chain.

UPSIDE DOWN FOOTBALL—End Al Krueger (left) of Southern California, is shown on the ground scoring a touchdown against Oregon, having just taken a pass in the end zone from Quarterback Bob Peoples. It seems that the feet-in-air style of play is contagious here. In the nosedive at the right is Tom Roblin, Oregon back, and two more topsy-turvy players wave feet in the air in the background. Just in case you don't remember, Al Krueger is the back who caught the touchdown pass which beat Duke in the Rose Bowl game of two years ago.

Suggs, Cagle Top Thomaston Field

THOMASTON, Ga., Oct. 22.—The Thomaston Country Club entertained members of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association here today in a one-day meet in which two Louise's—Suggs and Cagle—walked off with most of the honors.

Louise Cagle, of Atlanta, won the blind bogey with an 89. The little Suggs gal, from Lithia Springs, tied with Mrs. J. P. Highower, of Thomaston, and Mrs. Albert Donnaud, of Atlanta, for the lowest number of puts. Each had 31, and Miss Suggs won the play-off.

In addition Miss Suggs' 80 was the low score of the day. Mrs. Morton Bright, of Atlanta, was next with an 87.

Trotters, Pacers On Program Here

Prancing horses of the past supplanted the iron steeds of the present when the first horse race to be held in Georgia in many years takes place on Lakewood track next Saturday. Another race will be held Sunday.

The many racing enthusiasts in Atlanta should insure big crowds at both contests. Lakewood track has been selected because experts agree that it is one of the most picturesque tracks in Georgia. The track has been conditioned for the meet.

Among the many entries will be Vagabond King, owned by Dr. Harold L. Holtzendorf, of Atlanta. Vagabond King, a three-year-old, ran second to Greyhound, the world's fastest trotter, and will therefore be one of the favorites in this race. Symbol Charles, owned by L. P. Skinner, prominent businessman of Eastman, Ga., has been making an outstanding record at Myrtle Beach this season.

Football Pool Gambling Called 'Major Industry'

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Boston University News, undergraduate publication, charged today in a copyrighted article that football pool gambling had become a "major industry" on the campus, with students representing at least six different lotteries.

The News asserted the lotteries were "raiding the student pocket-books with monotonous regularity" and that many departments of the university were being exploited.

Clutch Passes, Power Make Vols Stronger

By DON WHITEHEAD.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Four tailbacks with slingshot arms are pitching Tennessee's mighty Volunteers through another undefeated football season.

The old dependable power game continues to function smoothly around, but not since Major Bob Neyland became head coach at Tennessee in 1926 have the Volunteers been so potent in the air.

When the running game was stalled, the Vols have taken to the air with devastating sureness. It has made no difference whether Bob Foxx or Jimmy Butler or Buist Warren or Van Thompson was doing the tossing. The air game packs a touchdown punch. That's the discouraging situation facing the Florida Alligators when they square off against the Tennesseans here Saturday in an intra-Southeastern Conference tussle.

The Vols scored 21 touchdowns against Mercer, Duke, Chattanooga and Alabama—seven by air—with a cunning mixture of power and passes.

It was a pass that cracked Duke's highly-touted Blue Devils. Foxx faked back in the second quarter and shot a pass into the hands of sophomore end Al Hust, who romped into the end zone with the first score. The Vols barely missed two other touchdowns in the game.

Alabama was overwhelmed with passes. Johnny Butler tossed to this same Al Hust for the Vols' first score, and later in the game, Buist Warren pitched two strikes to Mike Balitaris to clinch the argument.

Alabama Coach Frank Thomas put his finger squarely on the cause of the Tide defeat when he said: "We didn't rush the passer."

Alabama outgained Tennessee on the ground, 202 yards to 154. Of the four tailbacks, Buist Warren is the deadliest passer. He has uncanny poise and is just as accurate with the enemy swarming about him as when he isn't rushed.

The Vols don't pass often, a dozen or so times a game, but when they do, it's a touchdown threat. In their four games, the Tennesseans have completed 20 out of 46 aerial attempts for an average of 2.6 yards a try. Tennessee's tight defense has intercepted 12 enemy tosses.

So any time the Volunteers' ground attack bogs down, watch for those pass-off passes.

Wingback Jack Hancock got an average gain of 6.3 yards a try. Four heaves were intercepted.

The opposition has taken to the air 58 times and completed 13 for an average of 2.6 yards a try. Tennessee's tight defense has intercepted 12 enemy tosses.

So any time the Volunteers' ground attack bogs down, watch for those pass-off passes.

Georgetown Undefeated Since 1937; 12 Seniors Never Beaten

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Georgetown's powerful Hoyas, unbeaten since November 20, 1937, have 12 players—all seniors—who've never known the sad sensation of losing a college football game.

The Hoyas have played their last 20 games without defeat and with only one tie, a 13-to-13 battle with Syracuse last year. During that stretch they have scored 462 points to their opponents' 66.

Maryland handed them their last defeat, 12 to 2, in Jack Hagerly was just beginning to get his coaching system going.

The 1938 season produced a husky, fast bunch of sophomores and Hagerly knew he had something when the Hoyas coasted to a 51-to-0 victory over Hampden-Sydney. Georgetown went on to win the rest, downing among others Manhattan, Bucknell, Temple and Maryland.

The 1939 season opened with a 3-to-2 victory over Temple, Angelo Lio kicking a field goal with 45 seconds left to play. They came the Syracuse tie. The following week the Hoyas dumped Bucknell, 13 to 7. In the four remaining games they held their opponents scoreless while they were piling up 55 points.

Another big, fast bunch of sophomores joined the team this year and Georgetown continued along its shutout trail, blanking Roanoke, 66 to 0, and Temple, 14 to 0, and trouncing Waynesburg College, 36 to 12, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 46 to 4.

Until this year Coach Hagerly did not have a large enough squad to hold regular scrimmages. Now his job is a little easier. There have been complaints that Georgetown doesn't play a tough enough schedule. To these H. Gabriel Murphy, graduate manager of athletics, replies:

"We'll play them. The trouble is they won't play us. My desk is full of letters from so-called strong opposition which can't fit Georgetown into its schedule."

Pretty Blonde Slings Passes For Boys' Club

18-Year-Old Girl Also Place-Kicks For Extra Points.

ATMORE, Ala., Oct. 22.—(UP)—Atmore High school's football team had just made a touchdown and a pretty, shapely blonde—bare legs flashing under her short skirt—ran onto the field. She didn't lead any cheers; she went into the Atmore backfield and fired a pass into the end zone for an extra point on the conversion play.

This is the second year Luverne Wise, now 18, has been making extra points for the Atmore boys' football team. Last year she place-kicked the conversions, but this season she added passing to confuse further Atmore's befuddled opponents. The boys playing football already were plenty bewildered by having to try to tackle an attractive girl whom they would rather lead through a rug-cutting session on a dance floor.

BETTER THIS YEAR.

"She is better this year than last," Andy Edington, Atmore coach, said tonight, and described her poise in the face of a bunch of rushing boys.

"Luverne went in to throw a pass for the extra point and the center threw the ball wild." She went back and picked up the ball and, as the entire Monroeville team rushed through to get her, she threw a beautiful long spiral lateral to Captain Vickery, who in turn passed to Brislin, an end, and so we had another point."

"I don't make any difference to the crowds attending South Alabama High school football games whether Luverne kicks or passes. They are enthusiastic about seeing this pretty girl with the figure of pleasing curves pit her skill against a team of rough boys."

A LOVELY SIGHT.

The crowds think Luverne is a lovely sight when she trots onto the field, dressed in the abbreviated silver skirt and blue and silver blouse, and not even a Hollywood talent scout could disagree with them. The girl only stays in the game for the try for point. The spectators always give her a rousing cheer when she enters the game and another when she goes back to the bench, even if she misses the conversion.

Edington drills Miss Wise for 15 minutes daily, at place-kicking and passing.

In the first game this season Luverne place-kicked two extra points in two attempts. In the second game, she missed the first try for point on a place-kick. On the next conversion, she threw a pass and made the point. Since then she has been mixing kicks and passes, to the added dismay of her many opponents.

Luverne makes good grades in school and works as an assistant cashier in an Atmore theater.

After she is graduated next June she hopes "to get a job coaching a girls' football team."

seen in football for some time. A stylist worth watching.

As passers they are close to a par, although neither is an Allardice. Reagan is also a fine blocker and a deadly defensive back. It will be interesting to compare the all-around values of these two men. They won't be far apart.

The big crowd at Ann Arbor will see one of the greatest kickers that ever came west when Reagan's long spirals become outlined against a western sky. They should make Yost think of the Sweeney of 1902.

Zivic Is Offered Bout in Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Lew Raymond, fight promoter, said today he had wired an offer of $7,500 to headquarter of Frankie Zivic, world's welterweight champion, for a 15 or 20-round title bout here November 24 between Zivic and the winner of the Harry Weekly-Jerome Conforto fight Monday.

After Revenge.

Penn had his revenge to pick up against a Princeton team that won two years ago. It took a lot of football to stall off this keen, desperate Tiger squad that fought bitterly to the last play in compiling 28 points against a much better team.

Princeton had no running attack back of a spotty line, but it

JONES CALLS SHOTS AND MAKES THEM.

The sixsome broke up at the ninth hole, Morton Bright and Gene Dahlbender Jr. joining Pros Jimmy Thomson and Howard Beckett for a nine-hole match, while the rest of us formed a foursome.

G. A. (Nick) Nicholson and your ever-dubbing correspondent agreed to tackle Charlie Nunnally and Gene Dahlbender Sr., which was a mistake that proved itself on the 18th hole.

Anyway, we drew a gallery whose intentions were honorable because he was openly showing us a list of football games and making remarks calculated to allow for a difference in opinion.

What our team needed were points on the golf holes and not Georgia and three against Kentucky and Harvard over Dartmouth. Since we couldn't get points at golf, we decided to make a foursome with or without the aid of a spectator, and Bob Jones' name came up.

"Youk now," said Bud Bicknell, "I am convinced that when he (Jones) makes up his mind he is going to make a golf shot, he can do it."

"The other day, when Bob, Charlie Black, John Grant and I were playing at North Fulton, he came to a tough downhill putt of six feet. 'Well, I'm going to get a putt down,' Jones said, or words to that effect. So he dropped the putt."

"Next thing you know, he decided out loud that he was going to make a 20-footer. When that one dropped, it was convincing. The thought struck me that he could make any shot he wants to when he makes up his mind and concentrates enough to do it."

"Bob probably would be the first to deny that he could make any shot he wanted to," quoth this dub, "but the time I played with him, he pulled the same thing."

"It was at the seventh hole at East Lake. Bob had pushed his iron a little and was about 30 yards from the pin. 'I think I'll sink this one,' he said. Then he chipped the ball into the cup."

Then we tried a field goal at the 16th hole and the match was over.

DOUBLE DUTY.

CAMDEN, S. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The uniformed policeman serving as head linesman at a high school football game heard a siren and quickly turned the job over to someone else. He then scooted to the fire, where he took charge as acting fire chief.

Hinds Wins Individual Pistol Championship

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Major S. R. Hinds, Fort Benning, won the Georgia state individual pistol championship here yesterday, shooting an aggregate score of 1,708 in two matches.

Major Hinds is participating in the third annual Georgia State and South Atlantic championship pistol tournament, now in its third day here.

Harry Reeves, Detroit, Mich., policeman, continued to hold the spotlight in individual matches, winning five and placing third in another. He teamed with Maurice LaLonde, a fellow Detroit, in taking second in another match.

The 1939 season opened with a 3-to-2 victory over Temple, Angelo Lio kicking a field goal with 45 seconds left to play. They came the Syracuse tie. The following week the Hoyas dumped Bucknell, 13 to 7. In the four remaining games they held their opponents scoreless while they were piling up 55 points.

Another big, fast bunch of sophomores joined the team this year and Georgetown continued along its shutout trail, blanking Roanoke, 66 to 0, and Temple, 14 to 0, and trouncing Waynesburg College, 36 to 12, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute, 46 to 4.

Until this year Coach Hagerly did not have a large enough squad to hold regular scrimmages. Now his job is a little easier. There have been complaints that Georgetown doesn't play a tough enough schedule. To these H. Gabriel Murphy, graduate manager of athletics, replies:

"We'll play them. The trouble is they won't play us. My desk is full of letters from so-called strong opposition which can't fit Georgetown into its schedule."

Elbert Moves 5-Year Costs Toward Peak For Advertising Of Celebration Cited by Nehi

Russell, Brown Speak, Court Refuses To Bar Exhibits of 'Cola' Definitions.

By JACK TUBBS
Special Staff Writer
WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 22.—The militant spirit of Nancy Hart came over a modern and busy world, and added encouragement to Elbert's week-long toward the celebration.

From every part of the country came Elbert's lengthening march of generations to take part in the picture of a growing and progressive community of people as substantial as the solid granite on which much of the county rests.

Today, like yesterday, and like the four days that came, was one of successive parading, public speaking, pomp, pulchritude and pageantry—a genuine celebration of a real event, Elbert's attainment of his 150th year.

George's Junior Senator Russell and his wife, Mrs. Russell, with addresses in which they paid tribute to the pioneer who created Elbert county and Georgia, and who founded the family which has made them great.

Chancellor W. W. Harrington overruled an objection of a local Col. counsel to admit exhibits of dictionary and encyclopedia definitions of the term "cola."

Both before and after the speaking programs, the 42-piece Elbert High school band, in smart blue and white uniforms and baton-twirling majorettes, led parades through the streets immediately adjoining the public square.

Even the 'Idol of the Screen' Can Fall In Love, Glory Discovers

INSTALLMENT III

She was silent for so long that Glory thought she was bored and said softly, "Well, I'll be going to bed now. Good night, Miss Jamison."

"Just a minute," Helen said brusquely. "I live at an apartment hotel not far from the boulevard. Not much of a place, but it's reasonable and clean. Why don't you get a room there so that I can see you occasionally? Maybe I can give you a tip now and then."

The gratitude in the girl's face made Helen ashamed.

"Oh, Miss Jamison, that's perfectly wonderful of you!" Helen thought with a sigh, "as to whether she can trust me or not, I'll probably kick myself all over the lot for this. But I can't see that kid turned loose by herself. And after all, if she has plenty of money it won't cost me anything."

She would have been horrified if she had known what Glory considered sufficient to live on for several months. She would have been amazed if she had dreamed of the startling events which would result from her kind-hearted impulse.

But, Glory, tucked snugly into her own berth, was convinced that fate had taken her under a kindly wing. What a day this had been. In only a few hours she had changed the course of her entire life. She was on her way to Hollywood and already she had made a friend. And in spite of all Helen Jamison had said about it, Glory knew that her own experience would be different. Come what might, the girl told herself, she was young and strong, and she could take it. Because in the end her adventure would bring her success and perhaps romance! Whatever fate threw in her path, she would accept it eagerly. She was going to live at last now—really live. Before her opened like a bright new book, the pages yet uncut. The rain beat against the windows as the train sped on carrying Glory Stevens to meet her destiny.

The first week in Hollywood was a thrilling experience for Glory Stevens, who, at Helen Jamison's suggestion, had established herself in a one-room apartment furnished in typical Hollywood fashion even to the Venetian blinds. There was a miniature kitchen where the girl prepared her own orange juice and coffee. Her other meals were eaten at inexpensive restaurants or drug stores.

Helen had been wonderful. She had shown Glory how to make every penny count. Horrified to discover that Glory's idea of plenty of money was three hundred dollars, the older woman reproached herself for having undertaken the task of looking out for her. But it was too late now. The truth was that Helen had fallen under the spell of Glory's charm. She was such a gallant youngster. She never complained about anything or got in Helen's way. Unless her new-found friend suggested their sharing a meal, Glory trudged off to eat alone, and she had followed Helen's advice with a trusting eagerness that was pitiful. On all points but one. Whenever Helen mentioned her returning home, Glory shook her head. "I'm not going back until I'm famous and rich," she insisted.

Glory's father had written a letter which strengthened this determination. "Mike tells me you bought a one-way ticket which would leave you about three hundred dollars," he said stiffly. "When that is gone I'll arrange for your trip home." Not one word of reproach for cashing the check he had given her for a wedding present. Neither did he mention Arthur. This meant that he was even more hurt and angry than she had expected.

Now that it was behind her, Glory began to realize the enormity of her offense. To leave a man literally waiting at the church was unforgivable. People would talk about it for the rest of her life. She couldn't walk down Main street without hearing their curious, unkind remarks. She told herself that even if she wanted to go back, she couldn't now. "I'd starve first," she said dramatically.

"That's because you've never been hungry," Helen warned her. "You'll feel differently about it after you've gone without a couple of meals."

"But Helen, if I only had a chance. If I can only get a break..."

"And how do you think you're going about that break?" Helen inquired cynically.

"I don't know, unless you help me. Can't you think of anything? You know I'll do anything you say."

Helen groaned. There was something about this kid that certainly got under your skin. When she turned on that smile of hers it lighted up the whole room. Helen admitted, watching her, that she had a definite appeal. This girl was very sensitive to impressions; her emotions flashed like colored lights shifting across her lovely face. But so—what? Beauty and personality could be found in every Hollywood block. Unless she had the right contacts, the most beautiful girl in the world wouldn't have a chance. And how well Helen Jamison knew it! To convince Glory of it, however, was another matter.

Day after day Glory dressed in her prettiest clothes to make the rounds of studios; she couldn't even secure an interview. But she insisted she was not discouraged. Someday some one would see her, she argued. . . . If she could only meet a big producer or director . . . she felt certain they would immediately recognize her possibilities.

Meanwhile the money she had deposited in a bank was shrinking alarmingly. Helen suspected that she was eating only two meals a day. Finally she decided to take strong measures. That night she informed Glory that she had made an appointment for her with her own agent. She did not tell the excited, grateful girl what she had told Scottie Weston.

"Look, Scottie," she had said to Weston, "do me a favor, will you? I've got a movie-struck kid on my hands who won't go home. She's been half starving herself to make her money hold out. . . . Never mind how I got that way. . . . I thought if you'd see her and give her the lowdown maybe, she'd believe you. Thanks, pal! I'll do something for you sometime. And listen, Scottie, don't hesitate to give her the works, will you? I'll stand by to pick up the pieces."

But to Glory she said, "If you've a ghost of a chance, Scottie Weston will tell you. He's put across some of the biggest names on the screen."

"Wonderful!" Glory breathed. "But, Helen, why didn't you take me to him before?"

"It's not easy to get an appointment with Scottie," Helen said. "Even though he's my own agent. If all the people Scottie Weston doesn't see were put in a row the line would reach to Broadway and back."

"Oh!" Glory said, impressed. She was beginning to realize, although she wouldn't have admitted it, that getting into the movies was not at all as she had pictured it. But now that she had an appointment with a real agent, no doubt he would see at a glance what marvelous material she would be.

Helen knew what was passing through her mind and was so sorry for her that she invited her to dinner, although Glory insisted on paying her share of the check. As they walked down the boulevard, Glory thought it the most magic street in all the world. Men in casual sport clothes. Girls in slacks and heavy make-up, with their hair hanging about their shoulders. Glory delighted in the easy air of informality, yet she had been here long enough now to be conscious of the tension. The girl who waited on the tables, the clerk in the drug store, the handsome overalls boy in the service station—all were waiting for the same thing. A break! Surely nowhere else in the world could there be so many pretty girls, so many good looking men. Everywhere one looked—beauty and brawn. Yet underneath it all that subtle undercurrent of excitement made up of hope and desperation. The atmosphere fairly reeked with over charged emotions. But it was her city and she belonged to it. Some day they would recognize her as she drove down that boulevard in her cream-colored car. . . .

"Better eat here tonight. It's cheap," Helen suggested. But where she ate, or what, made little difference to Glory because tomorrow she had an appointment with Scottie Weston. . . .

The next morning at 9 o'clock Glory was knocking on Helen's door.

"Now what?" grumbled Helen. "I'm so excited I couldn't sleep," Glory apologized. "Let me in and I'll fix your breakfast."

She busied herself in the tiny kitchen while Helen went back to bed and smoked a cigaret. The sight of the girl, who might have been her own daughter, bringing the coffee and toast on a tray brought a lump into the older woman's throat.

"Do you think I ought to wear my black dress?" Glory asked, seating herself at the foot of Helen's bed.

"No, it's too sophisticated," Helen said. "But isn't that the way you want me to look?" Glory asked surprised.

"It is not. Wear the yellow sports outfit."

"That thing!" I made it myself, Glory protested.

"Fine. I want you to look real. Scottie's fed up with girls who look glamorous. . . . glamorous boy, what did that word mean originally?"

Glory poured herself another cup of coffee and asked eagerly, "Tell me about this Mr. Weston. What is he like?"

Helen smiled. "He's a straight shooter, which is saying a lot for a Hollywood agent. He also knows his business. If Scottie tells you it's useless, you may as well pack your bags and take the next train."

Your Horoscope for Today

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21st and April 19th (ARIES). After 11:35 a. m. this should be a most favorable day, when you can deal with others with diplomacy. After 11:35 a. m. is most favorable for general business, legal consultations, and for contacting those who are able to give good counsel. The period favors buying and selling, finishing unfinished tasks and communications. Before 11:35 a. m., however, be certain that the things you undertake are of a practical nature.

April 20th and May 20th (TAURUS). Previous to 11:45 a. m. is the better portion of the day, when you should make every effort to get conditions set in motion for progress. After 11:45 a. m. and until 6:30 p. m. care should be used to hold your peace, and be careful in taking on new obligations. After 6:30 p. m. favors appointments, meetings and conferences.

May 21st and June 20th (GEMINI). Greater gains will be reached by attending to necessary matters today. Remain away from things that are not strictly above board, and cannot stand the "light of day."

June 21st and July 22nd (CANCER). Between 8:02 a. m. and 6:42 p. m. favors talking finances, dealings with friends and acquaintances, for advancing personal aims, and for work of a humanitarian nature. After 6:42 p. m. avoid haste and do not insist on your own schemes, and do not insist on promises.

July 23rd and August 22nd (LEO). Be careful that you do not miscalculate or misjudge or overdo in financial transactions previous to 10:42 a. m. But if you will give your attention to affairs of a light vein, or which involve your domestic and social happiness, this can be very favorable period. Between 10:42 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. harsh words, undesirable conditions or sordid happenings may creep in to give you a feeling of repulsion. However, this is not lasting, for after 3:30 p. m. things will go right without much effort.

KIDS—A 14-year-old girl who writes short stories and poems just for the fun of it and a 10-year-old boy so expert in reading and arithmetic that his school has arranged a special course of study for him will be the new "Quiz Kids" this week.

These newcomers who will join last week's winners when the "Quiz Kids" assemble at the microphone in Chicago for the broadcast to be heard over WAGA at 7 o'clock tonight are Barbara Hutchinson and Richard Wilton.
Barbara and Richard will compete with Elizabeth Wright, 15, who last week captured first place on her first "Quiz Kids" appearance; Jack Lucal, who has scored first in four of his six appearances, and Gerald Darrow, who this week will be taking part in his 14th program. Professor William R.
Slaughter, educational advisor,
Medill School of Journalism, Northwestern University, will be guest observer.

QUIZ—Kay Kyser, 7th old professor, will converse another musical class in the "College of Musical Knowledge" over WSB at 9 o'clock tonight. From the studio audience he will select a group of "pupils" to weather the barrage of questions pertaining to music and musicians which he will fire.

The one with the best average, of course, will be proclaimed the winner.

Recesses will be provided at intervals during the hour-long show.
The Kyser orchestra, featuring
Ginny Simms, Harry Babitt, Sully Mason and Ish Kibbible, as vocalists, will present music especially designed to set feet a-tapping.

tertaining series during its broadcast to be heard over WAGA at 7:30 o'clock tonight.
The series is devoted to stories concerning life in the city of New York, and has presented a number of very interesting plays, Mysteries, romances, comedies and human interest stories have been heard.

Germany Fights Beetle

Unrelenting efforts to combat the potato beetle in Germany have failed to halt the pest's menace to the country's most important crop. Mechanical and chemical means have been used in the constant campaign being carried on throughout the Reich. School children have been enlisted to help farm workers in destroying the insects. The Berlin government has ordered distribution of insecticides, which have been only partially effective. German scientists are now trying to develop a potato plant which will resist the ravages of the beetle.

Gum Shortage Grows.

Every time tobacco prices have risen in Britain recently millions more packages of chewing gum have been sold, according to London dealers. Supplies are getting short, and as the troops have first claim, the civilians' "ration" is be-

AROUND Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

Interview Council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium. Atlanta's traffic problem will be among the subjects considered.

Roy Colston has been elected to the fire department and James Collins has been named to the police force of East Point by the city council. Council also refused to zone the intersection of Sylvan road and Jefferson road for business purposes.

Miss Laura Colvin, assistant librarian at Agnes Scott College, will leave this week to attend the meeting of the Southeastern Library Association at Savannah.

Atlanta Historical Society will meet at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night at the Biltmore hotel for dinner and a program. J. Adger Stewart, of Louisville, Ky., will speak.

Directors of the Atlanta Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, will meet at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at Davison-Paxon's tearoom.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, is in Oswego, N. Y., today to deliver two addresses at the Baptist Convention of New York State.

Atlanta Truth Center will meet at 11 o'clock this morning at the Biltmore hotel.

Bank clearings yesterday totaled $10,300,000, an increase of $2,300,000 over the same day a year ago, the Atlanta Clearing House Association reported.

Special evangelistic services will be held each Wednesday and Sunday at the East End Methodist church until November 21, the Rev. E. M. Wise, pastor, announced yesterday. His sermon subject tonight will be "Are You Prepared?"

at the CITY HALL

Blaine Walker, clerk in the waterworks department, has been named president of the Atlanta City Employees' Union Local No. 4, to fill the unexpired term of B. H. Wall, resigned. Walker formerly served as president and when a vacancy occurred, he was placed at the helm of the organization again.

The office of J. Charlie Bowen, city building inspector, boasts the most beautiful flower display at the city hall. V. S. Starr, first assistant inspector, provides the office with huge dahlias each morning. They have attracted wide admiration and Starr is regarded as a champion dahlia grower by his fellow workers.

Today in Atlanta's Churches

Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Cascade Methodist church will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at the church. Mrs. D. M. Barnes will teach the home missions class.

at the COURTHOUSE

Fulton county commissioners have been asked to appear before the grand jury at noon today, Foreman R. W. Didschuneit said yesterday. The grand jury will discuss county affairs with the commissioners, it was said. The jury is preparing to wind up its two-month investigation of county government, as required by law. Questioning of the commissioners is expected to be routine.

Mack Frye, known as a "lottery big shot," was released from the county public works camps yesterday by order of Judge Jesse Wood, of Fulton criminal court. The judge suspended the last 12 days of Frye's eight-month sentence for lottery violation because of illness in Frye's family.

Intermediate Girls' Auxiliary of the Moreland Avenue Baptist church will meet at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the church. Mrs. A. M. Jones, counselor, will preside.

Woman's Auxiliary of the First Spiritualist Church of Jesus Christ will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at 605 Adams street, Decatur, Ga. Dr. George Nelson Williams will speak on the subject "Where Are the Dead?"

Hamburg Set Afire as British Step Up Raids

Chain of Flames Merge Into One Huge Conflagration.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—In one of the mightiest attacks yet made upon a single Nazi area, the air ministry reported today, a thousand British fire bombs and vast loads of explosives have been dropped upon Hamburg, where German warships are under construction.

This violent assault, illustrating the rising tempo of a counter-offensive which Britain's leaders expect to maintain through the winter in the hope of seizing the initiative next spring, was declared to have left a chain of fires which eventually came together in "one great flaming mass."

The attack was carried out last night along with others on Germany's industrial Ruhr through a heavy ground haze, the ministry said, which forced the raiding British formations to break up into individual hunting crews.

French Coast Hit. For ten minutes, it added, an oil refinery at Reisholz, near Dusseldorf, was bombed from the air and 14 separate fires were raging as the British headed for home.

Explosions and fires were declared to have been set off in the Dusseldorf-Derendorf railway yards and at an airfield at Stade, Germany.

This night bombing campaign had followed daylight attacks of Monday along the Nazi-held French coast. The most spectacular success reported in that series was the bombing of a convoy of from 12 to 15 German cargo ships off Dunkerque.

A British pilot said his bombs had lifted two vessels almost out of the water and that one heeled over on its beam end. A tramp steamer in the outer harbor at Boulogne also was said to have been hit.

During the day the channel theater came alive yet again, in a violent artillery duel between British and German big guns loosed first by the Nazis.

During this afternoon still another assault on German shipping was reported—this time the bombing by a single British plane of a Nazi cargo vessel of some 2,000 tons off the hook of Holland. A direct hit was claimed.

Strong new hints came that a great British effort—offensive rather than merely counter-offensive—was in preparation.

Lord Croft, undersecretary for war, said in a speech to a group of film industrialists: "The war can never be won without a military decision, east or west, or on both fronts. That is why we are building up a great army."

Earlier in the day an authorized British spokesman said squadrons of bombers "and possibly fighters" would be put temporarily under army command when needed "for any particular operation." This would depart from precedent, since the RAF has its own independent status.

HUGE FIRES SET, GERMANS CLAIM.

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Fast, bomb-laden fighter planes raided London, Liverpool, Birmingham and other important British centers last night and left huge fires which still were blazing in London this morning, German sources reported tonight.

Judge Urges 6-Month Wait After Divorce

Moore Proposes Half-Year Period Before Remarriage.

A proposal that Georgia laws be changed to require a six-month wait after divorce before remarriage was made yesterday by Judge Virlyn B. Moore as he prepared to take over operation of the newly created domestic relations court at the beginning of next month.

The judge, who advocates elimination of the two-jury verdicts requirement for divorce and the substitution of one verdict by jury, said he will ask the Atlanta Bar Association to appoint a committee to study divorce and domestic relations and work out a program to be sought from the legislature.

"If men or women were required to wait six months or more after divorce in order to remarry, a lot of them would think a lot longer before getting the divorce," the judge asserted.

Joe Bush, deputy clerk of superior court, is to be assigned to the new domestic relations court, which was created Monday by order of the superior court judges.

REA Loan Requests

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP) The rural electrification administration reported today that requests for loans to develop rural power projects were double the amount of money available. It said that between July 1 and October 12 it allotted $60,127,000 of the $100,000,000 made available for project loans this fiscal year, leaving less than $40,000,000 to be distributed among pending applications totaling more than $96,000,000.
